Farmers Union Chief Raps U.S. Ag Policies

By LIANE GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

The national president of the Farmers Union said in Lincoln Thursday he feels the United States is on the threshold of a depression as serious as that of the 1930s.

Commenting shortly after his arrival from Denver, Colo., Tony Dechant expressed dismay at the bill passed earlier Thursday by the House Agriculture Committee with reference to support rates for wheat and feed grains.

"The $3.10 (a bushel) target price for wheat with a loan level of $2.50 and a $2.25 target price for corn with a loan level of $1.87 is just too low," he said.

"It's not a sufficient guarantee for farmers to produce abundant supplies without once again going through the wringer if weather is good and we produce a little too much."

Dechant said unless there are adequate assurances forthcoming by the Senate Agriculture Committee, grain farmers will find themselves next summer and fall in the same depressed income situation that now besets livestock and dairy sectors.

And unless a good farm bill is forthcoming that would give farmers an adequate floor price, they would have no alternative but to cut back production at least 10%, he said.

"We have some of our states actually signing petitions along these lines now."

Dechant, who addressed a Farmers Union gathering Thursday night at Clatonia, also chided the Ford administration's "inconsistency."

On one side it seeks to give U.S. oil industry higher profits — "and the oil industry is making astronomical profits now," he said. "Then on Feb. 5, President Ford came out with a message to Congress not to increase support prices for agriculture."

He pointed out that farmers today "are up-tight," noting that they see history repeating itself.

If farmers go all out again this year and if the weather cooperates, they could produce 2.1 billion bushels of wheat; 7 billion bushels of corn and 1.5 billion bushels of soybeans.

"If we do, or if we even come close to these figures and the market weakens, farmers will once again see their prices plummet into the basement," he said.

He called for a "game plan" creating reserves insulated from the market. Farmers shouldn't be penalized for doing exactly what the government is asking him to do — "go all out on producing food and fiber."

"The old, worn-out cry about costs is a specious one," he said. "Even if we should end up with additional food, it is the finest collateral on which to have government loans."

Now there is only a 25-day supply of food in this country, he said.

"And it's not in the best interest of the American consumer to be caught that short. Up and down farm prices create shortages and too high prices for consumers from time to time."

DECHANT... foresees coming depression.

Congress Prodded To Aid Cambodians

WASHINGTON (AP) — Warning that "time is running out," President Ford declared Thursday night that Congress must vote emergency military aid within two weeks if Cambodia is to survive the current Communist offensive.

Ford indicated in a nationally televised and broadcast news conference that he is willing to see Lon Nol step aside as Cambodia's president if that would spur negotiations and end "an unbelievable horror story" in the besieged capital of Phnom Penh.

He stopped short of flatly calling for Lon Nol's resignation, but was blunt in warning that U.S. aid is essential for the Cambodians to avoid falling under Communist control.

"If we don't give the aid, there is no hope," Ford declared. Then he pressed for congressional action on his urgent $222 million aid request.

"If we do get the necessary legislation from Congress and it comes quickly... within the next 10 days or two weeks I believe there is a hope..." of Cambodia withstanding the offensive, he said.

The deteriorating situation in Cambodia dominated the news conference, Ford's 11th since taking office in August, but questions ranged to other foreign and domestic issues.

There were these other highlights:

—Ford left open the possibility that unemployment may top the previously forecast 8.5%, and said he would favor a larger tax cut than he has proposed, rather than increased federal spending, if a bigger stimulant was needed to end the current recession.

—The President again chided Congress for its slowness in acting on tax-cut legislation, declaring "what we need is speed" and that he is "very disturbed" at the congressional pace.

—He deplored as "very ill-advised... absolutely unwarranted" the terrorist attack in Tel Aviv and said he hoped it would not destroy the prospects for success of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's Middle East peace mission.

—Asked about any CIA connection with attempted assassinations of foreign leaders, Ford cited current investigations into CIA activities and said further comment from him at this time would be inappropriate.

—Asked about reports that conservative Republicans are unhappy with his policies and may be considering starting a third party, Ford said he felt his party should be "a broad-based, wide-spectrum party" and could broaden its base without losing the conservative wing of the party.

Ford declined to comment on whether he would like to have former President Richard M. Nixon take an active role in the Republican party once he recovers from his physical ailments. He said he felt it would be inappropriate for him to comment at this time.

The news conference was 21-minutes-old before questioning turned to the economy. Ford said in response that he would prefer tax reductions to increased spending if it appears a greater stimulant is needed to pull the nation out of a recession.

He again defended his economic program, said "it is moving in the right direction" but complained that Congress is moving too slowly. "What we need is speed," he declared in again urging faster action on tax-cut legislation.

But again and again the questioning turned to Cambodia and the question asked whether he would ask Lon Nol to resign to help negotiate a settlement. Ford replied he did not feel it proper to ask that of the head of another state.

Lon Nol, who overthrew Prince Sihanouk in 1970, has been the major stumbling block to the opening of negotiations since the Communists have refused to go to the table as long as he remains in office.

Lon Nol himself indicated to visiting American Congress members last weekend he might be willing to step aside if that would help negotiations.

Ford said a main aim of giving the aid would be to keep the Lon Nol government fighting until the end of the current dry season, some time about the first of July.

If that happens, he said, chances "will be infinitely better" and that the Communists would consider negotiations.

He added, however, that Congress must vote the aid "in the next 10 days or two weeks."

"If we abandon our allies," he said, "we will be saying to all the world that war pays."

The President also declared the reliability of the United States is at stake in providing aid to Cambodia and South Vietnam.

"If we cease to help our friends in Indochina, we will have violated their trust that we would help them with arms, food and supplies so long as they remain determined to fight for their own freedom," Ford said.

OPEC Offers West Oil Price 'Stabilization'

©The New York Times

Algiers — The oil-exporting countries offered Thursday to negotiate with industrial nations on oil price "stabilization" in an international conference on raw materials, and monetary relations, and development of poorer nations.

The first summit conference of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) ended in a closing declaration that it supported such negotiations "if equal attention is paid to the problems facing both the developed and developing countries."

The OPEC summit rejected a limited conference with industrial consumers on energy prices alone, and the 13 oil-exporting countries represented here said they were the "vanguard" of the commodity-exporting countries of the "third world."

President Houari Boumedienne of Algeria said in a closing statement that the industrial countries were prepared to negotiate now with OPEC because the oil countries had gained control over their resources and could regulate prices.

In the past, Boumedienne said, the commodity-exporting countries had had no "real bargaining power" and their views on international economic cooperation had not been taken into account. With OPEC, this has changed, he said.

"Our oil is at the disposal of the third world as an instrument of negotiation with the industrial countries," said President Carlos Andres Perez of Venezuela.

"We are more united than ever, strong in our rights, and supported by the third world, which will be the main beneficiaries if there is stability of prices," said the Shah of Iran, addressing the closing meeting at the Palais des Nations.

As a token of political unity among the OPEC members, Iran and Iraq, which have been fighting along their disputed border in Kurdistan, announced in a joint communique an agreement to demarcate the border and end all subversive infiltrations from either side.

The declaration that concluded the OPEC meeting showed the moderating influence of Saudi Arabia on key issues, rather than the more radical socialist line of Algeria.

Saudi Arabia, the largest OPEC producer and the world's major oil exporter, has been in close contact with the United States on the oil producer-consumer conference, for which there will be a preparatory meeting in Paris April 7.

Rain, Sleet, Snow Snarl Traffic On Nebraska Streets, Highways

Extremely hazardous driving conditions developed throughout most of Nebraska Thursday night as freezing rain, sleet and snow glazed highways and streets.

The Lincoln police Department reported 20 accidents, but no serious injuries, as of midnight Thursday blamed on the ice-covered streets.

By 8 p.m. the State Patrol reported Interstate 80 through Nebraska was ice covered, resulting in a great many accidents.

During the day, snow fell in western and northern Nebraska, while light rain and drizzle covered the rest of the state. Precipitation was the heaviest in the south central and southwest portions of Nebraska, the National Weather Service reported.

Ice on the wires caused a power failure at Gretna Thursday night, resulting in postponement of one of the games in the high school district basketball tournament there.

A Lincoln Electric System spokesman said two minor power outages in the city were quickly corrected.

Highways in the Lincoln, Grand Island, David City, Wahoo, Beatrice, Columbus, Oakland, Holdrege and Kearney areas were all sheets of ice Thursday night.

In Lincoln drizzle during the day turned into freezing drizzle by evening and eventually into snow about 10 p.m.

The most spectacular pile-up of the evening was a 13-car jam on the viaduct where Interstate 180 comes down onto 9th St.

Quick work by police and wreckers prevented a major snarl, however, and no one was seriously injured.

Police said there were actually five separate accidents at the intersection involving the 13 cars, one of which was a police cruiser.

The mercury in the Capital City Thursday ranged from a high of 32 degrees down to 25.

Friday's outlook for the state calls for mostly cloudy and colder weather with snow in the west and occasional snow diminishing to flurries in the east. Colder weather is on the agenda for Nebraska Saturday, with highs expected only in the 20s.

Nuclear Plants Moratorium Bill Draws Fire Of Electric Utilities

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Sen. Steve Fowler of Lincoln Thursday urged the Legislature to place a moratorium on the construction of new nuclear power plants, forcing the power industry to seek new, more economical or reduced energy sources.

His proposal, contained in LB439, drew sharp opposition from Nebraska's two giant electric suppliers, the Nebraska Public Power District and the Omaha Public Power District.

Both districts have nuclear plants in operation, and more in the preliminary planning stages.

Held For Later Action

The bill was held by the Legislature's Public Works Committee for later action.

Fowler's proposal would call for a moratorium on new construction "until such time as the evidence demonstrates with overwhelming certainty that nuclear energy is a safe and efficient power source."

At issue are health and safety factors involving the effect of low-level radiation and the costs involved in constructing a nuclear facility.

The power districts produced

Legislature stories on Pages 5-7 nuclear engineers and radiological health consultants who claimed that nuclear plants are both safe and economical.

The 80-unit reading for radiation at the boundary of NPPD's Cooper Station near Brownville compares with an 85-unit reading in the Statehouse rotunda, NPPD nuclear consultant Emerson Jones said.

Alternatives Listed

Fowler said the state should look at other alternatives, including solar energy, fossil fuel plants, hydroelectric facilities, the use of garbage as fuel, insulation requirements for homes to reduce consumption, and conservation of energy.

The new nuclear plant in Nebraska is going to cost a minimum of $1 billion, Fowler said, a figure which is equivalent to $600 for every Nebraska or $2,000 for every home.

That kind of spending could be put to better use by increasing the insulation of homes or finding other sources of energy, he suggested.

A host of witnesses — including environmentalists, scientists and the former president of the Central Nebraska Public Power and Irrigation District — supported the bill.

Dr. D. W. Kingsley of Hastings, the former power district president, said the assurance of safety remains "woefully inadequate."

"No Adequate Solution"

Thus far, "no adequate solution" for the disposal of radioactive wastes has been found, Lincoln physicist Dan Schilt said.

Jones said programs are underway to achieve the disposal of such wastes.

As for costs, he said, operation of a nuclear facility is cheaper than the operation of a conventional plant, although nuclear construction costs are greater.

The $16 fuel cost for one kilowatt produced by a nuclear plant compares with $74 for a conventional facility, Jones said.

"The ratepayers of Nebraska cannot afford this bill," OPPD spokesman Del Durrum said.

"Nuclear energy is the only economically sound way out of the energy crisis."

Ex-Boxer Charged With 2nd Omaha Bank Robbery

Omaha (UPI) — A former boxer, out on bond for a January robbery, was arrested for another Thursday as the metropolitan Omaha area recorded its 10th bank holdup of the year.

William L. Washington, 34, Omaha, appeared before U.S. Magistrate Richard Peck late Thursday and was ordered held under $50,000 bond.

The U.S. Attorney's Office wanted $100,000 bond since Washington was freed Jan. 17 after posting 10% of a $20,000 bond for a bank robbery two days earlier.

The FBI said Washington was arrested without incident at a north Omaha residence by police and FBI agents 3½ hours after the Mid-City Bank in central Omaha was robbed.

It was the third robbery at Mid-City since Christmas.

Washington, who authorities said was known as "Boots" in the ring, told Peck "I did it to get some money to leave town."

Washington contended he was being "railroaded" by his court appointed attorney, Walter Matejka, who Peck named to defend Washington again.

"No matter who I would appoint," Peck said, you would probably object to him. I am going to appoint Matejka since he is very familiar with your case."

Washington was arrested in Omaha Jan. 17 for the robbery of the Omaha National Bank's drive-in facility in downtown Omaha. The U.S. attorney's office said $2,100 of the $3,200 taken in that robbery has been recovered.

Police arrived on the scene Thursday within minutes after Mid-City employees sounded the alarm and the bank manager called the police emergency number.

The bank manager said the bandit fled down

a street into a parking lot area of the Clarkson Hospital medical complex which includes the hospital, a doctors building and nurses facility.

The manager said a police officer in pursuit fired at least one shot, the suspect dropped the money bag and the police officer slipped, allowing the suspect to escape into an entryway.

However, Omaha Public Safety Director Richard Roth said late Thursday there were no reports on file of an officer firing a weapon.

Police and FBI agents combed the Clarkson complex looking for the suspect, who witnesses said kept one hand in his pocket during the robbery as if he had a weapon.

The estimated $2,640 taken was recovered in the dropped bag.

Several hospital employees saw the suspect, and police theorized he may have gone as far as to the 9th floor of the building, became lost and received directions to an elevator.

One officer, dispatched to the surgery room area, said "I felt like an idiot standing there holding a shotgun while those operations were going on."

Just how the suspect went from Clarkson to north Omaha several miles away was uncertain, but the FBI said a cab driver reported he gave a man matching the suspect's description a ride to north Omaha shortly after the robbery.

Mid-City employees said the suspect wore a scarf around the lower portion of his face and told one teller "I want it in a hurry. Hurry. Hurry."

In the Jan. 15 robbery, a picture of the suspect was taken by a bank camera and officers said that aided in his apprehension.

Since Jan. 1, Omaha has had 9 bank robberies and Council Bluffs, Iowa, one.

Farmers Union Chief Raps U.S. Ag Policies

By LANE GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

The national president of the Farmers Union said in Lincoln Thursday he feels the United States is on the threshold of a depression as serious as that of the 1930s.

Commenting shortly after his arrival from Denver, Colo., Tony Dechant expressed dismay at the bill passed earlier Thursday by the House Agriculture Committee with reference to support rates for wheat and feed grains.

"The $3.10 (a bushel) target price for wheat with a loan level of $2.50 and a $2.25 target price for corn with a loan level of $1.87 is just too low," he said.

"It's not a sufficient guarantee for farmers to produce abundant supplies without once again going through the wringer if weather is good and we produce a little too much."

Dechant said unless there are adequate assurances forthcoming by the Senate Agriculture Committee, grain farmers will find themselves next summer and fall in the same depressed income situation that now besets livestock and dairy sectors.

And unless a good farm bill is forthcoming that would give farmers an adequate floor price, they would have no alternative but to cut back production at least 10%, he said.

"We have some of our states actually signing petitions along these lines now," Dechant, who addressed a Farmers Union gathering Thursday night at Clatonia, also chided the Ford administration's "inconsistency."

On one side it seeks to give U.S. oil industry higher profits — "and the oil industry is making astronomical profits now," he said. "Then on Feb. 5, President Ford came out with a message to Congress not to increase support prices for agriculture."

OPEC Offers West Oil Price 'Stabilization'

Algeria — The oil-exporting countries offered Thursday to negotiate with industrial nations on oil price "stabilization" in an international conference on raw materials, monetary relations, and development of poorer nations.

The first summit conference of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) said in a closing declaration that it supported such negotiations "if equal attention is paid to the problems facing both the developed and developing countries."

In addition, the declaration said the OPEC members were "prepared to negotiate the conditions for the stabilization of oil prices which will enable the consuming countries to make necessary adjustments in their economies" to higher energy costs.

The summit did not endorse Algeria's call for a special OPEC fund of $10 billion to $15 billion to give economic aid to developing countries, but instead called for coordination of grants and loans given by the funds under the control of individual countries or regional funds.

William L. Washington, 34, Omaha, appeared before U.S. Magistrate Richard Peck late Thursday and was ordered held under $50,000 bond.

The U.S. Attorney's Office wanted $100,000 bond since Washington was freed Jan. 17 after posting 10% of a $20,000 bond for a bank robbery two days earlier.

The FBI said Washington was arrested without incident at a north Omaha residence by police and FBI agents 3½ hours after the Mid-City Bank in central Omaha was robbed.

It was the third robbery at Mid-City since Christmas.

Washington, who authorities said was known as "Boots" in the ring, told Peck "I did it to get some money to leave town."

Washington contended he was being "railroaded" by his court appointed attorney, Walter Matejka, who Peck named to defend Washington again.

"No matter who I would appoint," Peck said, "no matter who I would appoint, I am going to appoint Matejka since he is very familiar with your case."

Washington was arrested in Omaha Jan. 17 for the robbery of the Omaha National Bank's drive-in facility in downtown Omaha. The U.S. attorney's office said $2,100 of the $3,200 taken in that robbery has been recovered.

Police arrived on the scene Thursday within minutes after Mid-City employees sounded the alarm and the bank manager called the police emergency number.

The bank manager said the bandit fled down

a street into a parking lot area of the Clarkson Hospital medical complex which includes the hospital, a doctors building and nursing facility.

The manager said a police officer in pursuit fired at least one shot, the suspect dropped the money bag and the police officer slipped, allowing the suspect to escape into an entryway.

However, Omaha Public Safety Director Richard Roth said late Thursday there were no reports on file of an officer firing a weapon.

Police and FBI agents combed the Clarkson complex looking for the suspect, who witnesses said kept one hand in his pocket during the robbery as if he had a weapon.

The estimated $2,640 taken was recovered in the dropped bag.

Several hospital employees saw the suspect, and police theorized he may have gone as far as to the 9th floor of the building, became lost and received directions to an elevator.

One officer, dispatched to the surgery room area, said "I felt like an idiot standing there holding a shotgun while those operations were going on."

Just how the suspect went from Clarkson to north Omaha several miles away was uncertain, but the FBI said a cab driver reported he gave a man matching the suspect's description a ride to north Omaha shortly after the robbery.

Mid-City employees said the suspect wore a scarf around the lower portion of his face and told one teller "I want it in a hurry. Hurry. Hurry!"

In the Jan. 15 robbery, a picture of the suspect was taken by a bank camera and officers said that aided in his apprehension.

Since Jan. 1, Omaha has had 9 bank robberies and Council Bluffs, Iowa, one.

Inflation Cooling Off

(c) Washington Star

Washington — Wholesale prices declined in February for the third straight month, the Labor Department reported Thursday, confirming that the economy's inflation fever is cooling off.

The decrease of 0.8% from January to February was the biggest drop since September, 1973. It was the first time since 1967 that wholesale prices had declined for three straight months. There were declines of 0.5% in December and 0.3% in January.

Sharp drops in farm and food prices led the way last month. Industrial prices rose much less than last year.

The downtrend in wholesale prices is starting to work its way through to retail prices, although there are lags and prices paid by consumers tend to be sticky.

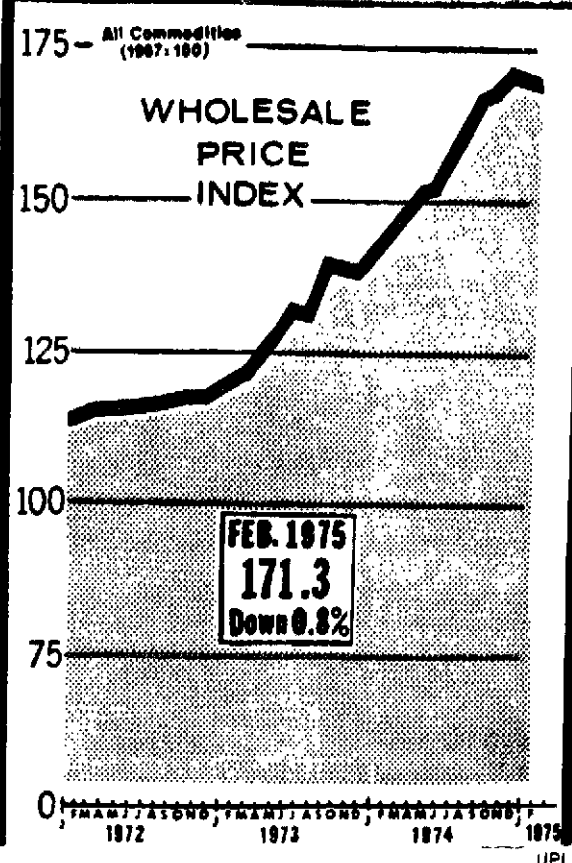

Consumer prices in January, the last month for which figures are available, rose 0.6%, about one third less than the average monthly increase in 1974.

World-wide recession is the main cause of the slowdown in inflation. Ford administration officials expect inflation at the retail level to drop to an annual rate of about 6.5 to 7% this spring (apart from the impact of any oil tariff and tax increases) from the rate of about 12% in the closing months of last year.

However, there is concern that the respite from inflation may not last long. The administration warns that excessive moves to pull the economy out of the recession could bring a new burst of inflation in 1976.

Even with the recent declines, wholesale prices last month still were 14.6% above February, 1974, reflecting the huge increases through most of last year. The price rise from February, 1974, to February, 1975, was the smallest for any 12-month period since last June.

House Panel OKs Bill On Ag Price Floors

Washington (AP) — The House Agriculture Committee approved on Thursday a bill that could raise the price of milk by eight cents a gallon and increase the price floors of key grains by more than 50%.

The vote was 32 to 8.

The administration has estimated the bill could cost $3.72 billion in payments to farmers if grain prices fell below the floors established by the one-year bill described by supporters as an emergency measure.

Rep. William C. Wampler, R-Va., said he was considering an attempt to amend the bill on the House floor with a substitute version acceptable to the administration that was rejected by the committee.

Rep. Peter Peyser, R-N.Y., called the measure inflationary and "outrageous." He vowed to actively seek its defeat. Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz earlier called the proposed price floors "totally unacceptable."

Under the bill, the government would give farmers the difference between the market price and the target price for cotton and key grains. For milk, it would set a minimum price that manufacturers would have to pay farmers.

The dairy price support in the measure is set at 85% of production costs, plus a reasonable profit, a level that could raise the price of drinking milk by 8 cents a gallon, butter by 20 cents a pound and cheese by 10 cents a pound, according to government estimates.

The price floors for key grains are significantly above the government's estimated costs of production for 1975 but below current market prices, except for cotton. Old cotton is selling near the present target, with estimated production costs running above the proposed target.

For wheat, the target would be increased 63%, from $2.05 a bushel to $3.10, with a production-loan level of $2.50 a bushel.

The corn target would jump 51% from the present $1.38 to $2.25 a bushel, with a loan level of $1.87 a bushel.

The cotton target would rise 26% from the present 38 cents a pound to 48 cents a pound, with a 40-cent loan level.

Desperate Drive Launched By Cambodian Task Force

Phnom Penh (UPI) — A Cambodian government task force plunged into swamplands surrounding Phnom Penh's Pochentong Airport Thursday in a desperate counteroffensive seeking to push back rebel gunners and keep open the capital's only supply line.

Rebel forces with mortar, recoilless rifles, and rockets forced a temporary halt of the U.S. rice and ammunition airlift Wednesday. Only a limited number of flights were resumed Thursday.

The task force — estimated at between two and three battalions or about 1,000 soldiers at normal strength — struck at rebel forces in the marshy country around Tuol Leap, 4½ miles from the airport.

Military sources viewed the drive as an urgent bid to push back rebel gun positions that damaged one American-chartered DC8 cargo jetliner and forced a four-hour shutdown of the vital airlift of rice and ammunition from Saigon and Thailand.

Because of the shutdown and short schedule, only five planes carrying 236 tons of rice and one plane carrying 40 tons of kerosene reached Phnom Penh from Saigon during daylight hours Thursday.

It was the smallest number of DC8 flights to reach Phnom Penh since the emergency jet airlift began, but American sources in Saigon said the airlift would be back on full schedule at dawn Friday.

The government task force plunged into the Tuol Leap marshes trying to pinpoint and push back at least one 105mm artillery piece and a number of rebel rocket positions that hit Pochentong again Thursday.

It was also designed to prevent rebels from bringing up any more of the estimated 30 105mm artillery pieces they have captured from government forces.

Air strikes have failed to silence the dug-in and camouflaged rebel positions — sparking the desperate offensive on the ground.

Pochentong Airport remained closed to civilian air traffic Thursday.

Western diplomatic sources said complete closure or seizure of the airport was the Khmer Rouge insurgents' primary objective — and they feared it could be carried out if the rebels can push the gun and rocket positions to within three miles of the airfield.

Rebel strength around besieged Phnom Penh was estimated at about 30,000, while the Cambodian government has between 20,000 and 25,000 frontline troops.

Meanwhile, refugees at one Phnom Penh center complained Thursday of food shortages so severe that only the children are fed while adults have to fend for themselves.

Children at the refugee camp located in a project once intended as a luxury hotel convention center receive a daily ration of thin bean soup and a rice meal once every two days.

"The adults have to take care of themselves," Miss Chan Cineur, a Catholic relief services worker at the camp said. "The situation is getting worse daily."

Plan To Broaden GOP Weakened

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican leaders restored virtual unanimity in their national committee Thursday by further weakening a plan for state parties to show how they are trying to expand the GOP base.

Members shouted approval of a new compromise provision after national Chairman Mary Louise Smith said the unusual public wrangle that sidetracked the issue Wednesday night showed "that Republicans are alive, well and vigorous."

The provision relates to a requirement for state Republican parties to report by next Feb. 1 on steps they are taking to attract more women, racial and ethnic minorities, young people and old people.

It had earlier been compromised by the addition of language that said in effect nothing can be done to states which don't comply.

Thursday's compromise added a provision that says the national party can't review state plans unless the state asks for the review and removed a reference to "positive action" programs that conservatives found offensive.

None of the proposals are anywhere close to being as far-reaching as the Democratic Party requirements for states to take steps to bring in more women, minorities and youth and for national party supervision of the effort.

The GOP compromise was presented by Arizona committeeman John Hough, who cited the party's minority status as requiring unity, declaring, "there's only 18% of us left in the country. We really need to get together."

Iowa GOP Chairman John McDonald said it retains the spirit of the effort to broaden party ranks.

Though the voice vote that approved it appeared virtually unanimous, committeeman Rudy Boschwitz of Minnesota said later he disagreed with the change. He said party leaders watered down any meaningful reform because "they have this compelling desire to act with unanimity."

The second day of the two-day meeting went smoothly, in sharp contrast to Wednesday night's confusion when a parliamentary tangle forced adjournment in the midst of a close vote on whether to delete any requirements for states to show what they are doing.

Arab Terrorist Raid Leaves Israel Shaken

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — An Arab terrorist raid that took 14 lives in a Tel Aviv hotel left Israel shaken Thursday and threatening revenge. The situation clouded prospects for Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's newest Middle East peace mission.

"They will be punished," said Premier Yitzhak Rabin, implying that Israel will stage a reprisal. The Al Fatah guerrilla movement headed by Yasir Arafat claimed responsibility for the attack.

In Cardiff, Wales, on his way to the Middle East, Kissinger called the attack "a random and senseless act." He warned that reprisals would cost more lives, compound the tragedy and stand in the way of justice in the Middle East.

Seven Arab guerrillas, who seized hostages in a raid on the hotel before dawn, were killed by gunfire and explosions after Israeli soldiers attacked the military command said. Four hostages and three Israeli soldiers also were killed, the command reported.

Another five soldiers and six civilians were wounded, and an eighth guerrilla was captured and saved from an angry mob, the command said.

A command spokesman said the Israeli navy picked up a 150-ton sailing vessel that had towed the guerrilla assault boats to the Tel Aviv beach and the crew was in custody.

In Egypt, a spokesman for President Anwar Sadat said Egypt considers the raid a natural expression of "the current explosive situation in the Middle East."

"We hope this incident heightens efforts to have a meaningful disengagement to stabilize the situation," spokesman Tahseen Bashir told newsmen.

Moonshine Boom Predicted In Oklahoma

Muskogee, Okla. (UPI) — A federal official predicts a moonshine boom in the hills of southeastern Oklahoma because hard times can be counted on to revive reliable old ways of making a living.

U.S. Atty. Richard Pyle says moonshine whisky stills always increase in depressed times. Authorities usually apprehend about six moonshiners a year in Oklahoma, but with the recent job layoffs in the area Pyle said he would not be surprised if the number went to 10 or 12.

"They say, 'Judge, it's a way of making a living.' And with them it is," Pyle said.

Moonshiners, traditionally most numerous in the poor rural southeastern sections of Oklahoma, have been caught making as much as 600 to 1,000 gallons of the illegal brew a week, Pyle said. More often they produce from 50 to 100 gallons a week, he said.

If a moonshiner sells 600 gallons of his product each week for $10 a gallon, he could make $600,000 a year, he said. And the government loses the taxes it could collect on that amount.

Authorities are not going to start a big push to catch moonshiners, Pyle said.

"It's part of the agents' job to look for it. We've been watching one for several weeks. We have informants who keep an eye on them," he said.

The moonshiners have their problems, though.

"With sugar being like it is, it might offset the layoffs," Pyle said. "You can go back to using fruit. But fruit or potatoes take a lot longer than sugar to ferment."

Nebraska's Interstate 80 Bicentennial Sculpture Project Thursday was called "a blueprint for all Americans to follow for the Bicentennial."

John W. Warner, former secretary of the Navy and national administrator of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration, said: "Here in mid America, I may well have found the centerpiece for the Bicentennial," in reference to the sculpture project.

He said that since he took over the Bicentennial helm eight months ago, the celebration has been snowballing at the rate of close to 1,000 events and projects a month.

One of the mystiques of the Bicentennial, he said, is that it brings communities and diverse factions together.

He complimented Nebraskans on the wide spectrum of projects planned for the nation's 200th birthday celebration and "the unusual enthusiasm and excitement" to be found here.

Warner, of Washington, D.C., presented D.B. Varner, president of the University of Nebraska, an official Bicentennial flag. Varner, in turn, presented Gov. J. James Exon with 12 identical flags to be flown at rest stops involved in the project.

The designated stops are those near Omaha, Seward-Milford, York, Grand Island, Kearney, Cozad, North Platte, Chapel, Sidney, Kimball and Ogallala (two stops).

In his remarks, Exon said the sculpture project "will be a most important legacy to all future generations of Americans and a source of continuing pride to Nebraskans."

Nebraska's interstate sculpture project is considered one of the top three or four Bicentennial projects in the United States and is the only one in Nebraska that has been recognized by the National Bicentennial Administration.

It involves the commissioning of a dozen American artists to create outdoor sculptures for placement at the 12 Interstate rest stops by July 4, 1976.

The artists and four alternates have been tentatively approved by the Bicentennial Sculpture Corp. Those artists and their proposed designs will be revealed in May, according to project director Art Thompson.

A campaign to raise $700,000 for the sculptures is under way. Already, the Nebraska Bicentennial Commission has designated $100,000 in matching funds for the project.

Pranks Cause Danger At Dormitory

If a fire breaks out in Abel Hall on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln campus, there's now a danger that many students would be trapped.

The problem is pranksters who have turned in 10 false alarms in a little over two weeks.

Students in the residence hall have become used to hearing the fire bells ring and are ignoring the warning, Chief Fire Inspector Dale Boettcher said Thursday.

The false alarms, punishable by a jail term of up to six months and a fine of not more than $500, bring 14 men in two fire engines, one truck and a chief's car to Abel.

Campus security is trying to find the pranksters. One student was cleared by a lie detector.

Besides the possible entrapment of students if a real fire occurs, Boettcher cited traffic safety, the cost of responding and the fact that reaction time to real fires could be slowed as dangers in the pranksterism.

Lincoln Man Charged in Rape

A Lincoln man, Vincent L. Michon, 22, of 616 New Hampshire, was arraigned in Lancaster County Court Thursday on a rape charge stemming from the rape of a 21-year-old woman on the N. 10th St. viaduct last Saturday.

A preliminary hearing was scheduled for March 19 and bond was set at $3,000.

Bicentennial Wagon Train May Cross Nebraska

The Nebraska American Revolution Bicentennial Commission was informed Thursday that a wagon train may be traveling across the state next year as part of the nation's 200th birthday party.

Don Searcy, NARBC director, said current plans are to have the string of covered wagons enter the state March 27, 1976, near Scottsbluff, follow the Oregon Trail eastward to Ft. Kearney, then trace the Mormon Trail to a point near Omaha.

The wagons, which can travel about 20 miles a day, would then be put on barges about May 1 and floated down the Missouri River to St. Joseph, Mo.

Nearly $3.5 million is being raised nationwide for the cross-country trek from the west coast to Philadelphia, Searcy said. He explained that the wagon train would be moving backwards compared to the traditional route, mainly because Philadelphia kicked in the initial $250,000 to get the wooden wheels turning again.

On the trail through the state,

Nebraska's own wagon will be in the lead, he said, and hopefully native Nebraskans will be driving the 14-horse hitch at that time.

Nebraska's only commitment to the project would be in mapping and preparing a pathway across the state. Wagons, horses and drivers would be provided at no expense to the state or the commission.

In other action, commissioners spent several hours discussing a proposal from Hastings Advertising Agency to furnish, under exclusive rights, Nebraska Bicentennial memorabilia.

The commission decided to appoint a subcommittee to review possible contracts for sale of such items as commemorative dishes, patches, calendars and wall hangings.

The commission also reconsidered and endorsed three projects which had been rejected at the last meeting. They include the American Bicentennial Forest at Dana College in Blair; an "Education for All" sculpture at Northeast Nebraska Technical College in Norfolk; and the Phelps County Historical Society Museum in Holdrege.

"Nebraska at the 200th Year," a project being developed by Ruth Weatherly under a grant from the Nebraska State Department of Education, was also endorsed by the commission.

Drink All You Want

Hey, buddy, wanna free cup of coffee?

You can have all the cups you want come March 28.

All you have to do is purchase an Easter Seal Coffee Day button for $1 from any of 30 participating Lincoln-area restaurants.

Then, on March 28, put your button on and return to the restaurant — stay as long as you want and have all the coffee you can drink.

The novel fund-raising approach is part of the Nebraska Easter Seal Society's campaign which ends Easter Sunday.

All proceeds from sale of the Coffee Day buttons will help support the Easter Seal Society's summer resident camp, the only one in the state specifically designed for handicapped children and adults.

Minimum Wage Required In Spite Of Additional Tips

The State Department of Justice Thursday had some good news for waitresses and bellhops.

Employees who are compensated chiefly through customer tips must be paid a minimum of 90 cents an hour even if their tips are well over that amount.

The opinion was requested by State Labor Commissioner Jerry Chizek who said his agency stumbled on to five cases in the Lincoln and Omaha areas where waitresses and waiters were not being paid the 90-cents-per-hour minimum wage.

"We never did feel it was right for them to do that," Chizek said.

He added the employers involved are being notified that they must pay the minimum wage.

In some cases, he said, tips were being pooled, and wages were being paid from that by the employer.

Medical Personnel Survey OK'd

The Nebraska State Health Manpower Committee Wednesday agreed to conduct a survey of the personnel needed in Nebraska in 75 different health occupations.

Committee members also agreed primary care health occupations would be a priority in the survey.

Two more towns, Albion and Bassett have been designated primary care shortage areas by the National Health Service Corp., according to Al Mytty, Northern Nebraska Health Planning Council director. Mytty told the committee Albion is a critical medical shortage area, and Bassett is a critical dental shortage area.

Dr. Robert Sparks, University of Nebraska Medical Center chancellor presented the committee a study showing a need for an additional 4,084 nurses in the state.

Interstate Sculpture Project Lauded

Drink All You Want

Hey, buddy, wanna free cup of coffee?

You can have all the cups you want come March 28.

All you have to do is purchase an Easter Seal Coffee Day button for $1 from any of 30 participating Lincoln-area restaurants.

Then, on March 28, put your button on and return to the restaurant — stay as long as you want and have all the coffee you can drink.

The novel fund-raising approach is part of the Nebraska Easter Seal Society's campaign which ends Easter Sunday.

All proceeds from sale of the Coffee Day buttons will help support the Easter Seal Society's summer resident camp, the only one in the state specifically designed for handicapped children and adults.

Minimum Wage Required In Spite Of Additional Tips

The State Department of Justice Thursday had some good news for waitresses and bellhops.

Employees who are compensated chiefly through customer tips must be paid a minimum of 90 cents an hour even if their tips are well over that amount.

The opinion was requested by State Labor Commissioner Jerry Chizek who said his agency stumbled on to five cases in the Lincoln and Omaha areas where waitresses and waiters were not being paid the 90-cents-per-hour minimum wage.

"We never did feel it was right for them to do that," Chizek said.

He added the employers involved are being notified that they must pay the minimum wage.

In some cases, he said, tips were being pooled, and wages were being paid from that by the employer.

Medical Personnel Survey OK'd

The Nebraska State Health Manpower Committee Wednesday agreed to conduct a survey of the personnel needed in Nebraska in 75 different health occupations.

Committee members also agreed primary care health occupations would be a priority in the survey.

Two more towns, Albion and Bassett have been designated primary care shortage areas by the National Health Service Corp., according to Al Mytty, Northern Nebraska Health Planning Council director. Mytty told the committee Albion is a critical medical shortage area, and Bassett is a critical dental shortage area.

Dr. Robert Sparks, University of Nebraska Medical Center chancellor presented the committee a study showing a need for an additional 4,084 nurses in the state.

Pipeline Decision Near?

The Legislature's Public Works Committee will soon come to a decision on LB147, a bill which would grant to coal pipeline firms the same condemnation power given to pipeline firms transporting natural gas, petroleum and ammonia.

The condemnation authority is sought by Energy Transportation Systems Inc. (ETSI) of San Francisco, which needs to purchase easements across 260 miles of Nebraska territory in order to build a 1,036 mile-long, $750 million coal slurry pipeline from northeastern Wyoming to an electric power generating plant in Arkansas. ETSI needs similar legislative approval to cross Kansas and Oklahoma.

Opposition to the coal slurry pipeline has sprung with fury from Nebraska's railroads, which see themselves being forced into an economic war. Lobbying for and against the bill has been intense and has reached past the Legislature into the media.

Public Works Chairman Sen. Maurice Kremer sees LB147 as "a major decision" the committee must make. Some sort of decision is due shortly. Kremer says there are still some unanswered questions relating to the source of water for the slurry mixture, the amount of electric power booster stations in Nebraska will need to pump the mixture through the state and the economic impact on the railroads. Kremer suggests that the legislation may be a subject for interim study, which would put off a decision until next session.

Admittedly lacking a profound understanding of the economics and technology involved, we nevertheless suggest that the hard information is already at hand. The questions raised about water supply, power and economic impact are all legitimate questions but to what lengths must the senators go to have them answered?

A delay for the sake of delay, a delay which is not based on factfinding necessity but which merely recognizes the power of the railroad lobby, will reflect adversely on the Legislature and if it frustrates the ETSI venture or others like it, could in the long run be detrimental to the interests of energy users, whether in Arkansas or Nebraska.

Whatever might be raised as an obstacle to the coal slurry pipeline, the following can be said with varying degrees of certainty:

—ETSI is not asking for precedent-shattering authority, of that there is no doubt. It is asking only for what has been given other pipeline carriers.

—The coal slurry pipeline promises to transport coal more cheaply than the railroads. It is an attractive competitive alternative the use of which could result in lower power bills for many users.

—There is a possibility that in the future low-sulphur Wyoming coal used for the generation of electric power could be transported more cheaply to plants in Nebraska via a pipeline.

—The coal slurry pipeline will not threaten the economic stability of the railroads because if this nation mines the staggering quantities of coal which are projected in the attempt to achieve some sort of energy independence, there will be more coal to be transported than the railroads could conceivably carry.

If that is the case, it seems only logical that it is in the best interests of the nation to have a feasible transport alternative — one that would keep the railroads competitive — rather than a monopolistic transport system.

Old Argument Revisited

Current times have sparked a lot of new economic thinking and shaken a good many old convictions but some fundamental distinctions remain unchanged. The debate between Congress and Treasury Secretary William Simon over details of a near certain tax cut involves opposing principles of long standing.

Simon is urging that the cuts go more to middle and upper income groups than Congress has so far shown it intends to do. Also, he has urged that the Senate change the House-passed federal income tax cuts to allow for a 12 percent rather than 10 percent investment tax credit to business and industry.

On the matter of individual tax cuts, Simon said that they should be spread more evenly and shouldn't be weighted toward the poor. Wealthier persons are more likely to buy big-ticket items like appliances, he said, and this would provide more stimulus to the economy.

Understandably, Simon is reported to have evoked little favorable response in the Senate Finance Committee. He is said to have lamented that "good politics seldom makes good economics."

Turning that around, one might ask if social injustice makes good economics. We fail completely to see either the merits or good logic of Simon's position.

As a matter of fact, it is our opinion that he is all wet. Tax rebates that go to the lower income group, we believe, will be spent far more quickly than those that go to middle and upper income groups.

The spending among low income groups may not be for so-called big-ticket items but what is the difference? What is important is that we pump millions into the economy to try to get it going and that's exactly what tax rebates to the low income would do.

The old idea that wealth at the top will result in good times at the bottom is, at best, a highly questionable principle of national policy. One can completely reverse the principle with at least equal validity.

It is Congress rather than Simon that is on the right track and, whether political or not, it doesn't make bad economics, either.

Why Not Declare War?

CALIFORNIA — Salty tuna boat skippers bellowing in outrage at the seizure of their boats by a small South American navy year after year might seem slightly comic if it weren't a problem that this year will cost the American taxpayers more than $2 million.

The nearly annual Tuna Boat War has been going on for two decades between U.S. tuna fishermen and the government of Ecuador.

In the early 1950s, Ecuador, Peru and Chile declared their territorial limits to be 200 miles out to sea, rather than the 12 miles recognized by international law.

Those 200 watery miles are the favored feeding grounds for huge schools of tuna during the first three months of the year.

Since the U.S. tuna fleet (based largely in San Diego) descends on the area each year for its lucrative catch, the South American coastal nations no doubt saw in their new 200-mile limit a rich source of revenue.

With monotonous regularity, the Ecuadorians seize the U.S. boats, impound them in the nearest port and release them only when the fishermen pay hefty fines. They sometimes confiscate the catch, too.

Back when the Tuna Boat War began, the fishermen were instrumental in lobbying a bill through Congress called the Fishermen's Protective Act.

It provides that the federal government will reimburse the fishermen for their fines and confiscated catches.

When the "war" was renewed a few weeks ago, the Ecuadorians, using gunboats on loan from the United States, seized seven tuna boats and their catches.

The Ecuadorians had instituted a system of license fees, but rules out licenses for boats of more than 600 tons. Most U.S. boats exceed 600 tons — not a coincidence. Using their "Catch-22" rules, the Ecuadorians agreed to let the U.S. boats go only after they collected fines and cargoes amounting to more than $3 million. The State Department will reimburse about 70 per cent of that to the fishermen.

While the U.S. government has chosen all these years not to solve the recurring problem, preferring instead to muddle along with it, there are indications that later this year Uncle Sam will have to decide whether to fish or cut bait over the issue.

Pressure from lobster and salmon fishermen and oil companies is growing to extend our own territorial limits to 200 miles. A bill to do this will be before Congress this year. If it passes, the 200-mile limit might soon become the international rule rather than the exception.

If that is the case, Congress should, for the sake of consistency, rescind the Fishermen's Protective Act and let the tuna fishermen solve their own problem off the shores of South America.

With the extended limit we might even recoup some of that $50 million by fining Russian and Japanese trawlers caught fishing in our waters.

If Congress fails to pass the extended limit, however, and the 12-mile limit continues to be the international standard, the U.S. government next winter should send along a destroyer with the tuna boats to cruise, say, 13 miles off the shore of Ecuador in an updated version of Teddy Roosevelt's dictum to "talk softly but carry a big stick." Ecuadorian aggressiveness might rapidly melt under such circumstances. Taking back those gunboats we loaned them wouldn't hurt, either.

CHICAGO — Ten years ago, I sat in a huge hall on South Wabash Ave., one of the few white faces among thousands of blacks.

It was a convention of the Nation of Islam, more commonly known as the Black Muslims.

Speaker after speaker worked the crowd toward a common emotion: hatred. More specifically, hatred of whites.

The big moment was the appearance of Elijah Muhammad, the tiny man in dark glasses who was the leader.

I don't recall many specifics of his sermon because he rambled so.

But his point was clear: the enemies were the "white devils," the "blue eyed devils."

He preached racism and racial hatred, pure, simple and unmistakable.

Now 10 years later, it is fascinating to read the eulogies that have been heaped upon Elijah Muhammad, who recently died.

From Mayor Richard J. Daley: "A great loss to the city of Chicago and to the entire country."

Jesse Jackson: "The prophet has passed, but the prophecy lives on."

From a Chicago newspaper editorial: "The death of Elijah Muhammad . . . deprives Chicago of a man who, in enriching the lives of his people, enriched the life of the city."

Some of the warmest praise came from national religious organizations, who talked of his firm leadership, good works, and the fine example he set for his followers.

I'm not going to quarrel with their view of Muhammad.

But I wonder if they would gush in the same way about a white leader who had quite recently ranted about blacks being the enemy. I doubt it.

What might their reaction be to a white

How They Feel, Way Down Deep

leader who preached that we must segregate blacks and whites from each other? Or prophesied that blacks faced doom?

Sure, many whites believe that sort of garbage. In some rednecked sections of the country, you can turn on your radio and hear some yokel bible-thumper preaching it.

But political leaders don't praise them and nationally respected churchmen don't hail them as prophets.

We're also told about the fine example Muhammad set for his followers, teaching them self respect and self-discipline.

That may be true, and those are desirable virtues. But I wonder what part the death of Malcolm X had in teaching discipline, an event noticeably overlooked by the eulogizers.

Malcolm X was Muhammad's most prominent disciple. With his brilliant mind and genius for oratory, he was developing an enormous following of his own.

Dove Bill Is Senseless

After reading Ms. Weston's letter (Today's Mail, March 1) concerning the dove bill, LB142, I agree this is a very senseless bill and certainly should not become law.

The hunting season is a dreaded time of year for many farmers and if LB142 is passed, it will not be safe for man or beast anywhere.

If these legislators would be as eager to pass a law to clean up the roadides of beer cans instead of shooting the poor defenseless dove, I'm sure we would all benefit. Why must the taxpayer bear the enormous cost of cleaning up the roadides when a five-cent deposit on all throw-away cans and bottles would give the kids something to do and have spending money, too?

Let's hope LB142 is defeated again. We have enough trouble with hunters without it.

Chickens Came Home

It was predictable that once Nebraska political leaders plumped for "bailing out old Omaha University," that the intense competition for the higher education tax dollar between long-established Lincoln and the politically powerful Omaha metro area would generate ever larger and larger university budgets. Since it was almost inevitable that our population in Nebraska would remain somewhat static, the cost of sustaining two major tax-supported institutions of learning in the state, with little increase in population or wealth, would mean financial problems and the possibility of lowered standards of scholastic proficiency at both schools. . . . Lincoln and Omaha.

We have about reached this point and must face up to the fact that the Nebraska taxpayer simply cannot much longer pick up the "tab" for the somewhat profligate cost of higher and higher university salaries and costs. I predicted this when the state jumped through the hoop held up by Omaha when they "peddled old Omaha Uni." The chickens have come home to roost. Sorry, "do-gooders."

Why Oppose Licensing

Isn't it strange the State Health Department thinks it's important manicurists be licensed, because they are trained to look for diseases of the hand, but permits medical laboratory workers and X-ray technicians to work in hospitals and medical offices without any regard as to their qualifications? These are the people who provide physicians with results aiding them in making a diagnosis that can mean the difference between life and death.

People of Nebraska should be resentful that opposition to licensure for medical laboratory and X-ray personnel is largely from the Nebraska Medical Association, Nebraska Pathologist and Radiologist and the Nebraska Hospital Association. WHY? For philosophical reasons? Misdistribution of personnel? I do not believe any of these to be good, valid reasons.

A patient can be poked and repoked, experimented upon and X-ray pictures galore taken while alive and fighting for his life, but the moment he dies a licensed mortician must be called to remove his body, a licensed embalmer to embalm his body, a licensed cosmetologist to apply makeup and for the finale a licensed minister to lay him to rest.

Administrative Mistake?

I find the decision of the Peru State College administration to cancel the spring sports programs to be very disgusting and unfair. It is grossly unfair to those who have waited all year for a chance to participate in these programs as well as those who enjoy watching.

An administration that cannot manage its budget any better than this is in need of changing! This shortage of funds should have been seen long ago. Funds should have been cut from the other athletic programs to enable the students a chance to participate in spring sports as well as the others.

I sincerely hope that the State Board of Trustees investigates this shortage of funds and finds administrators more capable of handling the affairs of Peru State College.

JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Richard Nixon, living in lonely splendor in his California seacoast estate, isn't exactly a poverty case.

He has drawn hundreds of thousands of dollars from the taxpayers to help ease the shock of being reduced to civilian status. He collects a $60,000 annual presidential pension. He is attended by aides, at an additional cost to the taxpayers of $96,000 a year.

Yet the former President is deeply depressed over his finances. Close friends say he isn't taking in enough cash to meet his obligations. They claim his personal bank account is down to $500 and he has only $2,800 left to operate the San Clemente estate until July 1.

Even minor expenditures, such as an eastern trip his wife is planning to take next month, now cause a family budget problem, a friend told us.

Nixon paid off his back taxes with a $284,740 check which cleaned out his cash reserves, intimates say. He can't afford to pay an additional $148,000 tax debt, which is no longer collectible but which he had promised to pay, they report.

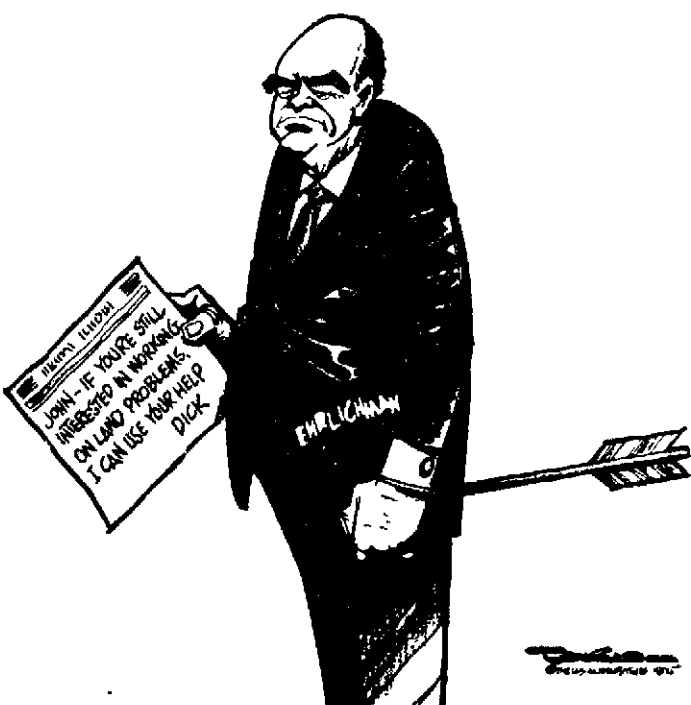

He neglected to take out health insurance when he left the White House. He was stuck, therefore, with a $23,000 hospital bill for his plebitis treatment. He recently paid off part of the bill with an $11,000 check, which left only $500 in his personal bank account.

He had to rejuvinate his San Clemente mortgage to reduce the payment schedule. He is left with little more than an acre in his own name, according to a friend. Nixon became so desperate that he asked his Florida crony, Bebe Rebozo, to sell Key Biscayne houses just to pay off the mortgage.

Instead, Rebozo is leading an effort to raise $500,000 from the public to purchase the two bayside homes as a nonprofit center for international study. This would leave Nixon a comfortable profit, since he purchased the homes in 1968 for only $125,527 and $127,800 respectively.

On paper, of course, he is not a poor man. But he lacks the income to sustain his life-style. He is desperately looking for ways to increase his cash flow. He hopes to make a substantial sum, for example, for his memoirs. But a $145,000 advance payment has already gone for research and salaries, says a friend.

Increasingly, the former President is counting upon his hardcore supporters to bail him out of his financial difficulties. Address cards have been prepared on 300,000 people who have written sympathetic letters to him.

These cards have been turned over to the Nixon Historical Association, which Rebozo formed to buy the Key Biscayne homes, and to the President Nixon Justice Fund, which Rabbi Baruch Korff formed to raise legal expenses. Direct-mail appeals have been going out to the 300,000 names.

Of the $100,000 that Congress earmarked for Nixon's transition, interestingly enough, he spent an astonishing $59,721 for stationery. He purchased a huge supply of paper, according to one insider, for the mass fund appeals.

Rabbi Korff acknowledged to us that he sends out 5,000 direct-mail appeals each month but denied using stationery supplied by the taxpayers. All expenses for the mailings, including the envelopes and postage, is paid by the U.S. Citizens Congress, he said. This is another non-profit, patriotic group which he heads.

The rabbi said he has promised to raise $1 million for Nixon. Of this, $400,000 has been committed to pay his legal expenses, and the remaining $600,000 will be turned over to Nixon to supplement his government allocation.

In touching language, the rabbi described the financial plight of the former President. "He broods about finances all the time," said Rabbi Korff. "Oh, does he worry! It saddens me terribly just to listen to him. He is a very troubled man."

Another close friend confirmed that Nixon is haunted by the memory of his childhood poverty. When he was a boy, his mother used to get up before dawn to bake pies for sale. She scrubbed, cooked and tended furnace so she could stay at a nursing home with an ill son.

Young Richard used to take his turn preparing meals of canned chili, spaghetti, pork and beans and other cheap foods. "There were many mornings," he has said, "when I ate nothing for breakfast but a candy bar."

This experience has driven Nixon harder than most men to seek an affluent life for his family, the friend says.

If that is the case, Congress should, for the sake of consistency, rescind the Fishermen's Protective Act and let the tuna fishermen solve their own problem off the shores of South America.

With the extended limit we might even recoup some of that $50 million by fining Russian and Japanese trawlers caught fishing in our waters.

If Congress fails to pass the extended limit, however, and the 12-mile limit continues to be the international standard, the U.S. government next winter should send along a destroyer with the tuna boats to cruise, say, 13 miles off the shore of Ecuador in an updated version of Teddy Roosevelt's dictum to "talk softly but carry a big stick." Ecuadorian aggressiveness might rapidly melt under such circumstances. Taking back those gunboats we loaned them wouldn't hurt, either.

CHICAGO — Ten years ago, I sat in a huge hall on South Wabash Ave., one of the few white faces among thousands of blacks.

It was a convention of the Nation of Islam, more commonly known as the Black Muslims.

Speaker after speaker worked the crowd toward a common emotion: hatred. More specifically, hatred of whites.

The big moment was the appearance of Elijah Muhammad, the tiny man in dark glasses who was the leader.

I don't recall many specifics of his sermon because he rambled so.

But his point was clear: the enemies were the "white devils," the "blue eyed devils."

He preached racism and racial hatred, pure, simple and unmistakable.

Now 10 years later, it is fascinating to read the eulogies that have been heaped upon Elijah Muhammad, who recently died.

From Mayor Richard J. Daley: "A great loss to the city of Chicago and to the entire country."

Jesse Jackson: "The prophet has passed, but the prophecy lives on."

From a Chicago newspaper editorial: "The death of Elijah Muhammad . . . deprives Chicago of a man who, in enriching the lives of his people, enriched the life of the city."

Some of the warmest praise came from national religious organizations, who talked of his firm leadership, good works, and the fine example he set for his followers.

I'm not going to quarrel with their view of Muhammad.

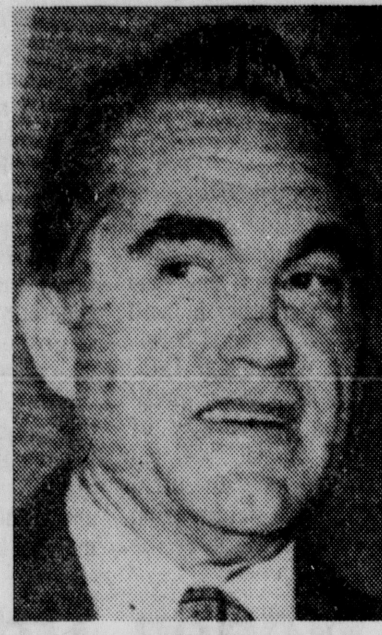

But I wonder if they would gush in the same way about a white leader who had quite recently ranted about blacks being the enemy. I doubt it.

What might their reaction be to a white

ELIJAH MUHAMMAD

leader who preached that we must segregate blacks and whites from each other? Or prophesized that blacks faced doom?

Sure, many whites believe that sort of garbage. In some rednecked sections of the country, you can turn on your radio and hear some yokel bible-thumper preaching it.

But political leaders don't praise them and nationally respected churchmen don't hail them as prophets.

We're also told about the fine example Muhammad set for his followers, teaching them self respect and self-discipline.

That may be true, and those are desirable virtues. But I wonder what part the death of Malcolm X had in teaching discipline, an event noticeably overlooked by the eulogizers.

Malcolm X was Muhammad's most prominent disciple. With his brilliant mind and genius for oratory, he was developing an enormous following of his own.

Dove Bill Is Senseless

After reading Ms. Weston's letter (Today's Mail, March 1) concerning the dove bill, LB142, I agree this is a very senseless bill and certainly should not become law.

The hunting season is a dreaded time of year for many farmers and if LB142 is passed, it will not be safe for man or beast anywhere.

If these legislators would be as eager to pass a law to clean up the roadsides of beer cans instead of shooting the poor defenseless dove, I'm sure we would all benefit. Why must the taxpayer bear the enormous cost of cleaning up the roadsides when a five-cent deposit on all throw-away cans and bottles would give the kids something to do and have spending money, too?

Let's hope LB142 is defeated again. We have enough trouble with hunters without it.

Chickens Came Home

It was predictable that once Nebraska political leaders plumped for "bailing out old Omaha University," that the intense competition for the higher education tax dollar between long-established Lincoln and the politically powerful Omaha metro area would generate ever larger and larger university budgets. Since it was almost inevitable that our population in Nebraska would remain somewhat static, the cost of sustaining two major tax-supported institutions of learning in the state, with little increase in population or wealth, would mean financial problems and the possibility of lowered standards of scholastic proficiency at both schools . . . Lincoln and Omaha.

We have about reached this point and must face up to the fact that the Nebraska taxpayer simply cannot much longer pick up the "tab" for the somewhat profligate cost of higher and higher university salaries and costs. I predicted this when the state jumped through the hoop held up by Omaha when they "peddled old Omaha Uni." The chickens have come home to roost. Sorry, "do-gooders."

Why Oppose Licensing

Isn't it strange the State Health Department thinks it's important manicurists be licensed, because they are trained to look for diseases of the hand, but permits medical laboratory workers and X-ray technicians to work in hospitals and medical offices without any regard as to their qualifications? These are the people who provide physicians with results aiding them in making a diagnosis that can mean the difference between life and death.

People of Nebraska should be resentful that opposition to licensure for medical laboratory and X-ray personnel is largely from the Nebraska Medical Association, Nebraska Pathologist and Radiologist and the Nebraska Hospital Association. WHY? For philosophical reasons? Misdistribution of personnel? I do not believe any of these to be good, valid reasons.

A patient can be poked and repoked, experimented upon and X-ray pictures galore taken while alive and fighting for his life, but the moment he dies a licensed mortician must be called to remove his body, a licensed embalmer to embalm his body, a licensed cosmetologist to apply makeup and for the finale a licensed minister to lay him to rest.

Administrative Mistake?

I find the decision of the Peru State College administration to cancel the spring sports programs to be very disgusting and unfair. It is grossly unfair to those who have waited all year for a chance to participate in these programs as well as those who enjoy watching.

An administration that cannot manage its budget any better than this is in need of changing! This shortage of funds should have been seen long ago. Funds should have been cut from the other athletic programs to enable the students a chance to participate in spring sports as well as the others.

I sincerely hope that the State Board of Trustees investigate this shortage of funds and finds administrators more capable of handling the affairs of Peru State College.

JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Richard Nixon, living in lonely splendor in his California seacoast estate, isn't exactly a poverty case.

He has drawn hundreds of thousands of dollars from the taxpayers to help ease the shock of being reduced to civilian status. He collects a $60,000 annual presidential pension. He is attended by aides, at an additional cost to the taxpayers of $96,000 a year.

Yet the former President is deeply depressed over his finances. Close friends say he isn't taking in enough cash to meet his obligations. They claim his personal bank account is down to $500 and he has only $2,800 left to operate the San Clemente estate until July 1.

Even minor expenditures, such as an eastern trip his wife is planning to take next month, now cause a family budget problem, a friend told us.

Nixon paid off his back taxes with a $284,740 check which cleaned out his cash reserves, intimates say. He can't afford to pay an additional $148,000 tax debt, which is no longer collectible but which he had promised to pay, they report.

He neglected to take out health insurance when he left the White House. He was stuck, therefore, with a $23,000 hospital bill for his phlebitis treatment. He recently paid off part of the bill with an $11,000 check, which left only $500 in his personal bank account.

He had to rejuvinate his San Clemente mortgage to reduce the payment schedule. He is left with little more than an acre in his own name, according to a friend. Nixon became so desperate that he asked his Florida crony, Bebe Rebozo,

Nixon Worries About Finances

to sell Key Biscayne houses just to pay off the mortgage.

Instead, Rebozo is leading an effort to raise $500,000 from the public to purchase the two bayside homes as a nonprofit center for international study. This would leave Nixon a comfortable profit, since he purchased the homes in 1968 for only $125,527 and $127,800 respectively.

On paper, of course, he is not a poor man. But he lacks the income to sustain his life-style. He is desperately looking for ways to increase his cash flow. He hopes to make a substantial sum, for example, for his memoirs. But a $145,000 advance payment has already gone for research and salaries, says a friend.

purchased a huge supply of paper, according to one insider, for the mass fund appeals.

Rabbi Korff acknowledged to us that he sends out 5,000 direct-mail appeals each month but denied using stationery supplied by the taxpayers. All expenses for the mailings, including the envelopes and postage, is paid by the U.S. Citizens Congress, he said. This is another non-profit, patriotic group which he heads.

The rabbi said he has promised to raise $1 million for Nixon. Of this, $400,000 has been committed to pay his legal expenses, and the remaining $600,000 will be turned over to Nixon to supplement his government allocation.

In touching language, the rabbi described the financial plight of the former President. "He broods about finances all the time," said Rabbi Korff. "Oh, does he worry! It saddens me terribly just to listen to him. He is a very troubled man."

Another close friend confirmed that Nixon is haunted by the memory of his childhood poverty. When he was a boy, his mother used to get up before dawn to bake pies for sale. She scrubbed, cooked and tended furnace so she could stay at a nursing home with an ill son.

Young Richard used to take his turn preparing meals of canned chili, spaghetti, pork and beans and other cheap foods. "There were many mornings," he has said, "when I ate nothing for breakfast but a candy bar."

This experience has driven Nixon harder than most men to seek an affluent life for his family, the friend says.

Corporate Farm Limits Questioned

By The Associated Press
Supporters of anticorporate farming legislation ran into critical questioning from members of the Legislature's Agriculture Committee during a public hearing Thursday.

Chairman Loran Schmit of Bellwood said the committee would take no action on three proposed pieces of family farm legislation until next week.

The three bills prohibit large nonfamily corporations from owning agricultural land. They are Sen. George Burrows' LB363, Sen. Douglas Bereuter's LB214 and Sen. Jules Burbach's LB203.

The critical questioning was led off by Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh who told the supporters that they should change tax laws which give advantages to corporations rather than attempting to prohibit them.

Bereuter said, "I don't see tax reform at the federal level coming."

Legislature OKs Introduction Of State Salary bill

The Legislature voted Thursday to allow introduction of a bill which would provide state employees with pay increases totaling nearly $14 million.

If the bill becomes law, each employee would receive an annual raise of 5% plus $468.

In addition, state agencies would be given 2% of their annual salary budget to use for merit increases.

The bill, LB388, said the merit increases could range from 1 to 10%.

Gov. J. J. Exon did not include a merit pay increase in his salary plan. The other provisions are identical. The cost of Exon's plan was estimated at $12 million.

of the committee repeatedly asked witnesses for specific examples of conglomerate intrusion. They received few examples.

Several senators said they feared the legislation could actually hurt family operations by preventing some families from taking advantage of favorable corporate estate tax regulations.

But supporters of the bills were adamant.

"I don't want the state turned into a feudal corporate manor," Bereuter said.

Max Robinson, president of the Franklin County Farm Bureau, said, "If the Japanese or the Arabs are buying land in Nebraska we need to know it." Sen. Jack Mills of Big Springs, the only senator who appeared as a witness in opposition to the bills, asked the 250 spectators to raise their hands if they were opposed to doctors, lawyers, accountants and investment groups buying agricultural land. The response indicated that they were opposed to the practice.

He then told the group that the bills did not prevent individuals from buying up farm land. He said it only applied to corporations.

He said, "There people here are involved on an emotional basis." He also said the bills would be "just another step toward socialism."

Larry Bowley of North Platte said he visited a corporate feedlot and saw that "the cattle didn't get fed that day because it took too much time to haul away the dead animals."

"I don't see how a corporation can be any competition to a dedicated farmer," he said.

Supporters of the bills said corporate farming would eliminate much of the retail business for small towns.

Cooper Enters No Contest Plea

Omaha (AP) — Deputy Douglas County Atty. Sam Cooper has been referred to the Municipal Court probation office for a pre-sentence investigation after pleading no contest to second-offense drunken driving.

Cooper was arrested Dec. 19 after his car was in a collision with another. In May 1973, Cooper was convicted of drunken driving in Lincoln. He was placed on one year's probation in that case. County Atty. Donald Knowles said earlier he intends to retain Cooper as a deputy.

Recommended Funds 'Inadequate'

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

In the fourth, final day of Appropriations Committee budget hearings, University of Nebraska President D.B. Varner declared that Gov. J. James Exon's $71.6 million general fund recommendation is "inadequate."

NU has requested $84.4 million in state tax funds.

If the university system receives only the $71.6 million, "we're going to have to cut back existing programs somewhere between $1.7 million and $4.2 million," Varner said, "just to stay even."

While the governor felt this was "all, in good conscience," he could recommend, Varner said it would create problems in meeting salaries, inflated materials and utilities costs, required Social Security increases and added retirement benefits.

'How Long?'

Sen. Robert Clark of Sidney, committee vice chairman, noted the Legislature has boosted NU's general fund budget by $10 million in each of the last three years. He asked Varner, "How long do you think we can keep this up?"

Varner replied that dealing with inflation is an "extremely painful procedure."

The NU president reiterated testimony all week by the three campus chancellors that the No. 1 priority in the 1975-76 budget is the salary question.

Legislative fiscal analysts have recommended a $10 million general fund increase over this year's NU appropriation, to $74.3 million, with $4 of every $5 in that boost tagged for salary hikes.

Flexibility Asked

Those, Varner said, are "most important" for NU to retain quality staff and keep morale high in the long term. But he also appealed to the committee to give NU flexibility in the salary budget, to award increases for merit and cost-of-living increases.

Other high priorities, Varner said, include departmental "areas of Excellence," for which about $2 million in special funding was requested, a rural health improvement program with an $800,000 price tag, and strengthening the agriculture program.

In testimony on the NU system budget, for which the legislative staff recommended about $3.46 million, Varner again appealed for $157,790, a new budget item, to fund the State University of Nebraska (SUN) project delivery system. The legislative analysts' budget included nothing for SUN.

Varner said that request represents half the cost per credit hour the Legislature gives the state colleges from tax money, at $40.72, and is based on projections of almost 3,400

Nebraskans enrolled in the college-at-home courses. Course production costs are privately paid.

Extra Aid Urged

Because federal funds for the SUN project will be channeled through its parent University of Mid-America, Varner also urged another $105,000 budget item to take up the slack for Lincoln employees.

In the controversial matter of who will pay for maintenance of the new Lincoln fieldhouse, legislative analysts estimated annual costs at $589,860 but haven't identified revenue sources.

William C. Erskine, NU executive vice president for administration, said because the fieldhouse scheduled completion date is in August, maintenance costs in 1975-76 should be reduced to $491,550. Expected revenue from rental is unknown.

Analysts proposed the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Athletic Department should pay $50,000 to $72,000 in management costs, that $25,000 should be paid by UNL special activities, and general funds of $493,000 to $515,000 pay the rest.

Joint Operation

Erskine agreed UNL could pay part of the costs, but Sen. John Savage of Omaha said, "I don't see why the burden should fall entirely on the university," since the fieldhouse is a joint NU-State Fair Board operation.

Fremont Sen. Thorne Johnson said the Fair Board, on which he sits, would be willing to pay part of the maintenance costs.

In a separate hearing on the Nebraska Educational Television (NETV) Commission budget, NETV Network General Manager Jack McBride said the legislative analyst's recommendation of $2,577,825 is satisfactory. He commission had requested $2,619,600.

McBride took budget exception, however, to one item — a $79,233 request for "Grand Generation," a television show for the elderly. The committee is considering awarding the funds to the State Commission on Aging, instead of NETV.

Either funding channel is acceptable, McBride said, as long as the program will be continued; he cited popular demand.

Marvel Again Criticizes UNMC Nonreporting Of Budget Excess

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Hastings Sen. Richard Marvel railed a second time Thursday against the University of Nebraska Medical Center (UNMC) practice of not reporting to the Appropriations Committee the excesses in previous years' budgets.

Marvel, committee chairman, said he was "disappointed that the top man," UNMC Chancellor Robert D. Sparks, "seemed to take it kind of lightly" when asked for statistics on the budget discrepancies Wednesday.

Jon Oberg, gubernatorial budget aide, scored a previous $800,000 UNMC deficit appropriations grant for professional medical fees, when

"at the same time, a significant amount of income" from retroactive Medicare payments "was not disclosed."

Did Not Know

Oberg suggested that the NU Board of Regents, in approving the deficiency request, did not know about the excess funds available.

UNMC should "reveal all sources of income," Marvel said, so the Legislature can review sources and approve expenses, and moreover, "so the public knows what's going on."

"Obviously, they don't know now."

The brouhaha resulted over $1 million in one-time excess payments that UNMC proposes to spend in 1975-76 for equipment, renovation and operations costs. Smaller payments since 1970 have been used to meet deficits in other budget areas, and were included unobtrusively among total budget data.

NU President D. B. Varner told the committee he was unaware of that budget procedure, but defended Chancellor Sparks, saying there was "no misappropriation of funds," and if the senators will only ask, Dr. Sparks will provide all necessary statistics.

Marvel said later if budget details are withheld from the committee, then Varner should conduct "a merger which has not been consummated," a figurative wrist-slap implying that each NU campus operates independently, despite the system concept.

'More Coordination'

Marvel flatly called for "more coordination" by the Medical Center with the NU system and Legislature. "It's not a privately run institution," he said.

Further, "I am moving fast toward a lump-sum appropriation" to NU, as the governor recommended, Marvel told Varner, that would "let you fight it out."

Marvel made the comment in criticizing the Omaha campus's deficit appropriations request the past three years because tuition revenues were below budget.

Bill Advanced On Lobbyist Regulations

By The Associated Press

A bill that would govern those who lobby the executive branch of government was advanced to the floor of the Legislature Thursday after a three-hour public hearing before the Government, Military and Veterans Affairs Committee.

The bill was advanced on a 6-1 vote with no amendments. Sen. Walter George of Omaha cast the dissenting vote.

The measure, LB531, was introduced by Omaha Sen. John Cavanaugh at the request of Gov. J. J. Exon.

The committee ignored recommended amendments, including one proposed by Exon aide William Hoppner, thus deciding to let the full Unicameral make any needed changes.

In other action the committee advanced LB372, a bill offered by Lincoln Sen. Wally Barnett to regulate conflicts of interest with respect to those who provide professional services for the state.

The bill advanced on a 6-1 vote with George again casting the only "no."

Recommended Funds 'Inadequate'

Lawmakers Hold Fast On Amendments

By United Press International
Nebraska lawmakers Thursday stuck to positions they adopted earlier this week when two proposed constitutional amendment bills directed at elimination of residential and commercial blight were debated.

They refused to reverse their decision to place before the voters in the 1976 general election a proposal to let the Legislature write legislation which would encourage removal of blight, particularly in commercial areas.

They also balked again when requested to place on that same ballot another proposition under which owners of dilapidated housing would be excused for five years from higher taxes stemming from improvements on their homes.

The first measure, LB260, sponsored by Sen. John Cavanaugh of Omaha, would allow any governmental subdivision to issue bonds and go into debt in revitalizing blighted areas. The higher taxes resulting from the improved property would be used to retire the bonded indebtedness and interest.

Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha made the motion to reconsider, arguing it could open the way for a subdivision to go into residential areas "and run roughshod over the people."

His motion to reconsider fell seven short of the 30 votes needed.

Sen. Frank Lewis of Bellevue urged the lawmakers to reconsider their action when they killed the second measure, LB98, also sponsored by Cavanaugh.

But the bill proponents' arguments failed when the motion to reconsider received 25 votes, five fewer than required.

Computer Data Control Bill Hit In Present Form

A proposal by Omaha Sen. John Cavanaugh to control data on individuals held in computers ran into opposition Thursday.

Representatives of credit companies and newspapers testified before the Miscellaneous Subjects Committee against LB326.

Even those supporting the bill said many problems in administering the act must be ironed out before passage.

Ernest Kovaly, data processing administrator for the state, supported the intent of the bill, but said it needs "modification and clarification."

"In its present form we could not even provide W-2s, federal withholding statements, to the Internal Revenue Service," Kovaly said.

Cavanaugh acknowledged that there may be problems in practical application of his bill, but urged passage of some sort of legislation.

The committee adjourned without acting on the bill.

Lawmakers Hold Fast On Amendments

By United Press International
Nebraska lawmakers Thursday stuck to positions they adopted earlier this week when two proposed constitutional amendment bills directed at elimination of residential and commercial blight were debated.

They refused to reverse their decision to place before the voters in the 1976 general election a proposal to let the Legislature write legislation which would encourage removal of blight, particularly in commercial areas.

They also balked again when requested to place on that same ballot another proposition under which owners of dilapidated housing would be excused for five years from higher taxes stemming from improvements on their homes.

The first measure, LB260, sponsored by Sen. John Cavanaugh of Omaha, would allow any governmental subdivision to issue bonds and go into debt in revitalizing blighted areas. The higher taxes resulting from the improved property would be used to retired the bonded indebtedness and interest.

Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha made the motion to reconsider, arguing it could open the way for a subdivision to go into residential areas "and run roughshod over the people."

His motion to reconsider fell seven short of the 30 votes needed.

Sen. Frank Lewis of Bellevue urged the lawmakers to reconsider their action when they killed the second measure, LB98, also sponsored by Cavanaugh.

But the bill proponents' arguments failed when the motion to reconsider received 25 votes, five fewer than required.

Computer Data Control Bill Hit In Present Form

A proposal by Omaha Sen. John Cavanaugh to control data on individuals held in computers ran into opposition Thursday.

Representatives of credit companies and newspapers testified before the Miscellaneous Subjects Committee against LB326.

Even those supporting the bill said many problems in administering the act must be ironed out before passage.

Ernest Kovaly, data processing administrator for the state, supported the intent of the bill, but said it needs "modification and clarification."

"In its present form we could not even provide W-2s, federal withholding statements, to the Internal Revenue Service," Kovaly said.

Cavanaugh acknowledged that there may be problems in practical application of his bill, but urged passage of some sort of legislation.

The committee adjourned without acting on the bill.

What kind of a nut buys air conditioning in the winter?

He's not a nut, he's a money-saver

... because he knows the dealer's crews aren't as rushed "nobody's pushing the panic button" and he can make a better deal on installation costs. And he'll avoid the rush next summer. If by now this doesn't sound so nutty to you, call us today for estimate.

Tolerance Test Needed For Hypoglycemia, Diabetes

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would a fasting blood sugar test (not a sugar tolerance test) be sufficient to diagnose hypoglycemia? — E. M.

The single fasting blood sugar test might suggest hypoglycemia (low blood sugar), but only if the sugar reading is very low. Blood sugar readings obtained in a tolerance test are more conclusive. These tests involve blood examination over a period of six hours. They are also far more conclusive than a single after-meal blood sugar test.

Curiously, a letter that arrived almost simultaneously with yours (from Mrs. J. S.) asked if a single fasting blood sugar test was conclusive in diagnosing diabetes (high blood sugar). My answer to her question is the same as to you. A reliable diabetes diagnosis cannot be made from a single fasting sugar test unless the reading is quite high. A tolerance test, as explained above, should be done for a conclusive diagnosis.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you explain the difference between polycythemia, hypoglycemia and hemochromatosis? — Mrs. H. J. B.

Except that they all will have an effect on the blood content, there is no connection. They are unrelated disorders. Polycythemia is an excess in the number of red blood cells, due to any of various causes. Hypoglycemia means periods of low blood sugar. The blood sugar level usually is pretty much normal most of the time, but there are unpleasant episodes when, from time to time, the level falls too low or too rapidly. Excess insulin by injection (as with diabetes) or from a tumor of the pancreas or comparable condition can cause these episodes, but so can faulty function of the pituitary, adrenal or thyroid glands. Or certain nervous disorders may be involved.

Hemochromatosis is a liver disorder involving excess iron deposits in that organ, and demands skillful attention as the condition can result in diabetes and impairment of the liver itself.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplaine

San Francisco—Bright and breezy days of March. The restless people are on the move, like the suicidal lemmings rushing to the sea. The mailman brings a heavy burden to the door. "Is it all right for me to wear pants suits in the evening in Paris?" (Answer: Yes.) I think you could wear a string bathing suit down the Champs Elysees and people would say, "Lucky girl! Must be on her way to Deauville." I am the Answer Man. People write and I must come up with something even if it is evasive. There's a breath of spring in the air. In the next few months the passport agency will deliver a million passports. We are all on our way from Luther to yon Excursion fare. Two martini headphones for the movie $2.50.

If you are like me you stick the stamps on the folder that says "You May Already have won $100 A Month For Life!" You stick a stamp on the place where it says, "No, I don't want the record album of Songs My Mother Sang to Me." You put it in the mail box. I said to the moppets "Now hear this I may already have won $100 a month for life! Lay it and splice the main brace!" The children said "The Cap'n's walking in Queer Street today. Took too many punches in the head."

The mailman carries the mail to my front door. Won't fit in the pigeon hole box.

"Dear Sir: If I buy a dog in France, how do I get it home?" Teachers give their students assignments. "Write three hundred words on one of the black emerging nations of Africa." The student writes me. Ruled paper "Dear Sir: Please tell me how to travel to the black emerging nations of Africa. Include air fare. Local customs. Sightseeing. Hotels. What to buy. Please hurry as I am leaving tomorrow." Two writers in every hundred forget to put in their addresses. Five envelopes come in with postage due. Several readers think I am the editor. Take me to task for the day's editorial on Cambodia.

The Federal Trade Commission says the chances of winning $100 a month for life are 980,000 to one. That's pretty heavy odds. (But it's the only game in the mail box.) I have high hopes. All I have to do is mail the folder back 980,000 times and I've got it made. The biggest bunch of travelers are under 30. They hold a million passports. You see them all over Europe. At sidewalk tables in Athens. Around Dam Square in Amsterdam. Hitchhiking on roads in France. Bearded, wandering troubadours with a pack and a guitar slung over the shoulder. "Dear Sir: I am 19 and want to travel and write about it. (Translation: "How can I get your job?") The eager folk are moving. To sunstruck beaches. To quiet rivers. To expensive night clubs abroad and smart shops on rushing boulevards. And so we leave the fragrant islands and sail into the sunset. Tolerance Test Needed For Hypoglycemia, Diabetes

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would a fasting blood sugar test (not a sugar tolerance test) be sufficient to diagnose hypoglycemia? — E. M.

The single fasting blood sugar test might suggest hypoglycemia (low blood sugar), but only if the sugar reading is very low. Blood sugar readings obtained in a tolerance test are more conclusive. These tests involve blood examination over a period of six hours. They are also far more conclusive than a single after-meal blood sugar test.

Curiously, a letter that arrived almost simultaneously with yours (from Mrs. J. S.) asked if a single fasting blood sugar test was conclusive in diagnosing diabetes (high blood sugar). My answer to her question is the same as to you. A reliable diabetes diagnosis cannot be made from a single fasting sugar test unless the reading is quite high. A tolerance test, as explained above, should be done for a conclusive diagnosis.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you explain the difference between polycythemia, hypoglycemia and hemochromatosis? — Mrs. H. J. B.

Except that they all will have an effect on the blood content, there is no connection. They are unrelated disorders. Polycythemia is an excess in the number of red blood cells, due to any of various causes. Hypoglycemia means periods of low blood sugar. The blood sugar level usually is pretty much normal most of the time, but there are unpleasant episodes when, from time to time, the level falls too low or too rapidly. Excess insulin by injection (as with diabetes) or from a tumor of the pancreas or comparable condition can cause these episodes, but so can faulty function of the pituitary, adrenal or thyroid glands. Or certain nervous disorders may be involved.

Hemochromatosis is a liver disorder involving excess iron deposits in that organ, and demands skillful attention as the condition can result in diabetes and impairment of the liver itself.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplaine

San Francisco—Bright and breezy days of March. The restless people are on the move, like the suicidal lemmings rushing to the sea. The mailman brings a heavy burden to the door. "Is it all right for me to wear pants suits in the evening in Paris?" (Answer: Yes.) I think you could wear a string bathing suit down the Champs Elysees and people would say, "Lucky girl. Must be on her way to Deauville."

I am the Answer Man. People write and I must come up with something even if it's evasive. There's a breath of spring in the air. In the next few months, the passport agency will deliver a million passports. We are all on our way from hither to yon. Excursion fare. Two martinis. Headphones for the movie, $2.50.

☆☆☆ If you are like me, you stick the stamps on the folder that says, "You May Already have won $100 A Month For Life!" You stick a stamp on the place where it says, "No, I don't want the record album of Songs My Mother Sang to Me." You put it in the mail box. I said to the moppets, "Now hear this. I may already have won $100 a month for life!" Lay it and splice the main brace!" (The children said: "The Cap'n's walking in Queer Street today. Took too many punches in the head.")

☆☆☆ The mailman carries the mail to my front door. Won't fit in the pigeon hole box.

"Dear Sir: If I buy a dog in France, how do I get it home?" Teachers give their students assignments: "Write three hundred words on one of the black emerging nations of Africa." The student writes me. Ruled paper. "Dear Sir: Please tell me how to travel to the black emerging nations of Africa. Include air fare. Local customs. Sightseeing. Hotels. What to buy. Please hurry as I am leaving tomorrow."

Two writers in every hundred forget to put in their addresses. Five envelopes come in with postage due. Several readers think I am the editor. Take me to task for the day's editorial on Cambodia.

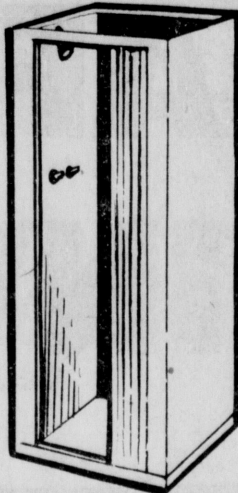

☆☆☆ The Federal Trade Commission says the chances of winning $100 a month for life are 980,000 to one. That's pretty heavy odds. (But its the only game in the mail box.)

I have high hopes. All I have to do is mail the folder back 980,000 times and I've got it made. The biggest bunch of travelers are under 30. They hold a million

Successive Sentences Ruled Legal

By United Press International
The State Supreme Court Thursday ruled two consecutive sentences for separate offenses, even though they arise from the same chain of events, do not violate constitutional provisions against double jeopardy.

In a separate case, the high court ruled the existence of a trust fund, unless it is readily available for use, cannot be used as a bar to aid to dependent children (ADC) benefits.

The double jeopardy question was raised in a case appealed from the Douglas County District Court in which Lawrence Saxon was convicted of robbery and use of a firearm in the commission of a crime.

On the robbery count, Saxon was sentenced to 25 years in prison and received a term of 3-10 years on use of a firearm. The sentences were to run one after the other.

He also received a 15-year concurrent sentence on another robbery count.

Saxon appealed contending the double jeopardy provisions were violated because the robbery and use of a firearm charges resulted from a single act.

The Supreme Court rejected the argument saying that using a firearm is not an essential element in proving robbery and evidence must be provided on each charge rather than just one.

The ADC dispute was filed by the guardians for Patricia Dorn and Pamela Sue Dorn, two of five children who lost their mother in 1965.

The State Welfare Department, after finding that each child had a $17,700 trust fund in the Beatrice National Bank, cut off ADC payments saying the existence of the money made them ineligible. The money resulted from a wrongful death suit in the death of the mother and was placed in trust by the courts.

The Supreme Court noted the guardians tried at one point to get money from the trust for the children and their requests were denied. The money wasn't to be released until the children reached the age of 21.

Further, the high court said the State Welfare Department knew of those efforts yet ADC payments were cut off.

In so ruling, the Supreme Court reversed a Lancaster County District Court decision in favor of the Welfare Department.

Court: School Can't Stall On Salaries

By United Press International
The State Supreme Court decided Thursday school districts can't get out of paying higher teacher salaries ordered by the Court of Industrial Relations by simply stalling litigation.

That decision was handed down in a case filed by the teachers against the Crete School District over salaries for the 1972-73 school year.

The State Court of Industrial Relations did not hand down its final order for a pay increase until February of 1974. The school district appealed contending the court is prohibited from handing down retroactive orders.

The Supreme Court agreed the law specifically prohibits the industrial court from issuing retroactive orders.

But the court went on to say just because there was a time lag does not automatically classify the salary increase order as being retroactive.

To agree with the Crete School District would be to destroy the effectiveness of the court by giving a party to an action the ability to stall his way out of paying, the court said.

In the Crete case, the court said the action was filed in a timely fashion in connection with the 1972-73 school year and the final order applies to that year. The court said a true retroactive order would have been one for the 1971-72 school year.

In other cases the Supreme Court:

—Agreed with the York County District Court that a term of 1-2 years in prison for burglary was not excessive in the case of David Pinney.

—Upheld the decision of the Madison County District Court to sentence Jon Fishery to five years in prison for selling LSD.

—Upheld the Douglas County District Court's decision to sentence Larry Gaston to a prison term of 20-30 years for being an habitual criminal.

—Agreed with the Valley County District Court that the state has a duty to spray for noxious weeds in a suit brought by Hiopoint Land and Cattle Inc. against the State Agriculture Department.

—Affirmed in part a divorce decree issued by the Lancaster County District Court to Robert and Ellen Sim Dewey but overruled a lower court order awarding additional alimony.

—Affirmed in part a lien dispute filed by Westland Corp. against Oris Hall in Holt County district court.

—Affirmed the decision of the Furness County District Court in a bond dispute filed by William Sherwood against Merchants Mutual Bonding Co.

PSC Testimony Taken In Secret

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature's Conflicts of Interest Committee Thursday heard two hours of secret testimony from five Nebraska Public Service Commission members concerning favors given them by telephone companies.

Afterwards, Sen. William Skarda of Omaha, committee chairman, said, "No action was taken. There will be another committee hearing at a later date I have no further comment."

No reason was given why a second hearing will be needed, nor did Skarda say who might testify. Indications were the second hearing might be held in three weeks.

Hearing Closed

The proceedings were closed to the public and press since a legislative rule which allows reporters to attend executive sessions applies only to standing committees. The Conflicts of Interest Committee is a special committee set up by state law.

Normally it only meets when a complaint is filed hence it is believed Thursday's meeting was the first time it has convened in at least a year.

In addition to Skarda, committee members are Sen. Richard Maresh of Vilhagen, Sen. Ron Coppe of Kearney, Sen. William Hasebrook of West Point Atty Gen Paul Douglas, Lincoln Journal editorial writer Dick Herman and the Rev. Robert Palmer, the Legislature's chaplain.

All Decline Comment

All declined comment, as did the commissioners.

The hearing is an outgrowth of a Feb. 14 disclosure by The Star that Nebraska telephone companies whose rates and services are regulated by the commission have given commissioners free football tickets and taken them on a fishing trip in Puget Sound and to an all-star baseball game in Kansas City.

Commissioners Duane Gay and James Munnely said they felt it would be inappropriate to discuss what went on in the hearing.

Commissioner Jack Romans said he was concerned about the fact that the committee apparently ignored the law in acknowledging to the news media that a complaint had been filed against the commissioners and allowing the news media to see the complaint.

The Conflicts of Interest statute states that complaints shall be confidential and neither the contents nor the fact that it has been made shall be made public unless a report thereon is made.

The Conflicts of Interest Committee received two letters on the subject.

Revised Beef Grading Standards Adopted

Washington (AP) — The Agriculture Department rejected the objections of consumers and announced Thursday that it is putting into effect virtually unchanged its revised beef grading standards. The new standards still classify beef as "Prime," "Choice" and "Good" but reduce the fat content required for the higher grades of beef. It has been estimated that the new rules would increase by up to 20% the amount of beef that would qualify as "Choice," the grade most commonly sold at supermarkets.

Consumers objected chiefly to the expansion of the "Choice" grade.

Referee Recommends Reprimand, But Not Disbarment, For Cook

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

G. Bradford Cook Thursday hurdled the first of two stumbling blocks which stand between him and his license to practice law.

John H. Kuns, a special referee appointed by the Nebraska Supreme Court, recommended Thursday that Cook be reprimanded, but not disbarred, for lying to a federal grand jury investigating an illegal $200,000 contribution to former President Richard Nixon's re-election committee.

After examining testimony and listening to oral arguments, Kuns said, "It seems highly unlikely that he (Cook) will ever repeat any misconduct... Your referee recommends disciplinary action to the extent of censure or reprimand."

The final decision will rest with the State Supreme Court after additional oral arguments are heard within the next two months.

"Just Great"

Cook, contacted in Washington, who said he and his wife had just brought their newborn daughter home from the hospital, called Kuns' recommendation "just great."

He said he was "very thankful."

Robert Crosby, Cook's Lincoln attorney, called Kuns' opinion

"a scholarly" and "fair" one. Crosby and Jonathan Rosner, another of Cook's attorneys, have argued that Cook should be reprimanded for his error but not disbarred.

Cook, a 1972 graduate of the University of Nebraska Law College and native of Lincoln, said since his resignation as chairman of the federal Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) he has opened an office in Washington, D.C., and offered his services as an investment counselor. He has voluntarily quit practicing law until the matter is settled.

Cook said he would like to continue to practice law and presently has an application pending before the District of Columbia Bar Association seeking membership.

Hinges On Nebraska

However, that application hinges on his remaining in the Nebraska Bar Association.

"I'd like to get this cleared up as soon as possible," Cook has stated in the past.

A reprimand is the mildest form of censure which can be handed down.

In his recommendation, Kuns found only one of six counts of unprofessional conduct Cook has been charged with worthy of disciplinary action.

That first count involves Cook's lying to a New York grand jury investigating an SEC case filed against financier Robert Vesco, who was accused of looting millions of dollars from overseas mutual funds.

Vesco had made a secret $200,000 contribution to the Nixon committee through fund-raiser Maurice Stans. Mention of that contribution was dropped from the suit filed against Vesco, allegedly at the request of Stans.

Lied To Grand Jury

Cook discussed the dropped matter with Stans prior to the filing, but told the grand jury on April 19, 1973, that he had not discussed it with Stans.

Shortly afterward, on May 2, 1973, Cook admitted to U.S. attorneys that his April 19 testimony was false. Later, in the Mitchell-Stans trial, Cook acknowledged under oath that his testimony was false.

The other complaints against Cook refer to statements before congressional committees. One statement made to a Senate subcommittee on May 1, 1973, was false but was not made under oath.

Kuns said, "It would be unreasonable to impose upon the entire bar a rule that every lawyer must at all times and in all circumstances be completely truthful and accurate in every statement that he makes, whether under oath or not."

Kuns said Cook quickly realized his error and "did all in his power to rectify his wrong. Probably it was proper that harsh criticism should be directed at him and it was."

Public Radio On Agenda Again

The Nebraska Educational Television Commission will again discuss a proposal for a statewide public radio network, at 1:30 p.m. Monday.

The commission will meet at the Nebraska Educational Telecommunications Center, 1800 N. 33rd, following a morning meeting with Nebraska Broadcasters Association (NBA) representatives.

The NBA has gone on record opposing an educational or public radio network. The NETV Commission has authorized an application for federal funds to study the feasibility of a Nebraska radio network, but has made no commitment to the proposal.

Other agenda items at the public meeting, according to commission Secretary Jack McBride, include NETV Network programming and operations reports, and a status report on the University of Mid-America and the State University of Nebraska project.

Commissioners will also review the renewal application for a Corporation for Public Broadcasting community service grant, and hear development reports on "Festival '75" and the upcoming "Auction '75."

At the private morning session, NBA President Gordon (Bud) Pentz of Beatrice, Vice President Joe Stavas, Dick Chapin and Frank Fogarty will meet with NETV commission executive committee members James M. McGaffin Jr. of Omaha, chairman; John Prasch, Lincoln Public Schools superintendent, vice chairman; and Mrs. Don Popken of Brady.

Services Slated For Former G.I. Chief Of Police

Grand Island (AP) — Funeral services for former Grand Island Police Chief Michael F. Gephardt will be held here Saturday morning.

Gephardt, 59, died Wednesday in a local hospital after a lengthy illness.

A native of Milwaukee, Wis., Gephardt joined the Grand Island Police Department in 1948, and was appointed chief in February 1958. He held the post until his retirement, Dec. 1, 1973.

City Dump At Holdrege To Be Full Within Weeks

Holdrege (AP) — The city of Holdrege is running out of room in its city dump.

The remaining room in the existing dump will be filled by the end of March, leaving Holdrege holding the refuse.

The city does own 37 acres of land southwest of town, but this ground cannot be made into a city dump unless approved by the Nebraska Department of Environmental Control (DEC).

One of the factors causing the current dump to fill so quickly is the refuse from Becton-Dickinson Co.

That refuse is equal to that coming from all the rest of the city.

The Holdrege City Council also learned that it faces the probability of spending over $250,000 on the city sewage disposal plant in order to bring it into compliance with the DEC.

Most of this work would have to be accomplished by June of 1977 and involves a nearly complete renovation of the facility, now located about two miles east of Holdrege.

The major item of expense would disinfect the facilities at a cost of more of more than $112,000.

High Court Hears TMS Arguments

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Attorneys for American Community Stores Thursday fought for the right to continue and expand an innovative savings system allowing First Federal-Lincoln account holders to make deposits and withdrawals at two Lincoln Hinky Dinky stores.

The State Justice Department has asked the Nebraska Supreme Court to ban the practice, saying it is a violation of the state's branch banking laws. A Lancaster District Court judge has upheld the system's legality.

The case is being watched by banking interests across the country, since some say the system, called the Transmatic Money System (TMS), is the wave of the future in banking. Interest in the case is high, and attorneys for both sides Thursday ran up against the court's time limit on arguments and were cut short.

Danger No Greater
John Delephant of Omaha said

the safeguards built into TMS, which utilizes computer terminals at the stores hooked to First Federal's computer, are such that the danger of an embezzlement is no greater than at a teller's window in First Federal.

Delephant said TMS accounts are insured risks.

The computer, he said, responds only if the transaction involves a TMS account and can reject a transaction if there are insufficient funds in the account.

TMS, in addition, he said, does not violate the privacy of the account, since TMS only accepts or rejects transactions and cannot reflect the account's balance.

TMS is not branch banking, he said, because, at most, the Hinky Dinky personnel are acting solely as agents for First Federal. To be involved in banking, he said, one has to receive money in deposit and make loans.

No Money Owed
"No claim has been made anywhere that Hinky Dinky owes the depositor one dime," Delephant said.

Basically, TMS is a customer convenience which through electronics allows a person to make a transfer in funds in 20 seconds instead of days by mail, he said.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board authorized First Federal to establish TMS.

The lawsuit seeking to block TMS, Delephant charged, was inspired by the State Banking Department at the request of competing banks and savings and loans, he charged.

"This is the same department that permitted state-chartered savings and loans to conduct business through agents located in other communities," he said.

Fremont Savings and Loan, a state chartered institution, has approximately 50 agents in nearby communities to solicit loans and transact other business, he said.

Delephant acknowledged TMS has had some "bugs," but he said they have been worked out.

During an initial six-week test period, Hinky Dinky's account went into the red "for a few hours" on several occasions, he said, because the volume of business was greater than anticipated.

Since then, he said, the computer has been programmed to reject negative balances in Hinky Dinky's account.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Ralph Gillan reiterated his objections to the TMS arrangement set out in his written brief and urged the court to overturn the lower court ruling.

Gillan said it is a matter for the Legislature to decide, noting that there is a bill in the Legislature to authorize TMS and similar systems.

Gillan's brief noted what an advantage TMS has been to First Federal. From Jan. 1 to March 1, 1974, Hinky Dinky processed deposits totaling $333,085 and withdrawals of $40,605.

U.S. Census Figures Out On '72 Sales

In 1972, Lincoln's 1,522 retail businesses had sales of approximately $413 million, according to a report on Nebraska's retail trade just released by the Census Bureau.

The report presents for the first time retail trade data for metro areas, cities and counties.

Report statistics show that retail businesses in the Omaha-Iowa Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area (metro area) had sales of almost $1.3 billion in 1972.

Omaha food stores had the largest sales volume, $239 million, while Lincoln's food stores had sales of $66 million, according to the report.

Another Census report on Nebraska's 1972 wholesale trade showed the Lincoln metro area's 281 businesses with $440 million in sales. In the report, Omaha's metro area wholesale businesses had sales totaling $3.3 billion in 1972.

Lumbermen Expect Better Sales

Omaha (AP) — Lumber dealers are looking for an upturn in business this year, but more demand could renew lumber price increases, officials of the Mid-America Lumberman's Assn. said Wednesday.

The officials were in Omaha for the Nebraska Building Material Dealers two-day convention and show. The dealers group is part of the lumbermen's organization.

John L. Hoppe Sr., first vice president of the association and chairman of John L. Hoppe Lumber Co. in Lincoln, said a 10 to 15% increase in home building may result in a 30 to 50% increase in the price of lumber. He said lumber prices traditionally react sharply to upturns in demand.

The lumbermen's President Carl Kottmeier said the price increases may not be that high. He said that because of the slump in building, lumber mills currently are operating at about 30% capacity. Therefore, price hikes may be tempered by the industry's ability to crank up unused production capacity.

Kottmeier is president of the Jefferson County Lumber Co. of Imperial, Mo.

He said lumber prices have dropped to 1972 levels because of the construction decline. He said building materials represent 20 to 25% of the cost of a house.

Hoppe said the lumber dealers' business loss has been tempered by an upturn in purchases for additions to homes, remodeling and do-it-yourself projects.

Kottmeier and Hoppe said business has suffered most on the coasts and in metropolitan areas, with rural area lumber yards faring better.

"Many agricultural yards are better off than they've ever been," said Stan Sheets, president of Valley Building Center in Superior, and a director of the lumbermen group. He said favorable grain prices have encouraged farmers to proceed with building projects.

NBC Files Suits Against Boetel

Omaha (AP) — Control of an apartment complex operated by Boetel and Co. has been granted to a loan company and the National Bank of Commerce Trust and Savings Association of Lincoln has filed seven lawsuits against investors of the financially troubled Boetel and Co.

Six lawsuits were against couples who had pledged to repay $85,000 each on a $500,000 loan from the bank to two Boetel companies in January 1974. The seventh was against G. Charles Boetel and his wife, Patricia, seeking repayment of $500,000.

The lawsuit said the two companies were behind in their payments as promised and said $302,000 had been loaned to Boetel and Co. and $193,000 to Boetel Properties, Inc.

The lawsuits asked the District Court to order the investors to pay the money up to the limit they had promised.

Commercial Federal Savings and Loan Association received control of the Four Pines Apartments and sued Boetel and Co. for missing loan payments. The foreclosure is one of several filed in District Court recently against Boetel properties.

District Court Judge John

Murphy signed an order allowing Commercial Federal to assume immediate control of the 12-unit apartments. The company said it loaned $100,000 to the Four Pines Limited Partnership, Boetel and Co. and West Omaha Development Co.

Couples named in the suits filed by National Bank of Commerce, besides the Boetels, are:

Howard and Judith M. Vann, Ewel J. and Barbara J. Karnes, Donald F. and Patricia K. Day, Joe M. and Virginia Katleman, Warren S. and Judy Zweiback, all of Omaha, and John J. and Marion J. Mortiz, Scottsdale, Ariz.

TMS is not branch banking, he said, because, at most, the Hinky Dinky personnel are acting solely as agents for First Federal. To be involved in banking, he said, one has to receive money in deposit and make loans.

No Money Owed
"No claim has been made anywhere that Hinky Dinky owes the depositor one dime," Delehant said.

Basically, TMS is a customer convenience which through electronics allows a person to make a transfer in funds in 20 seconds instead of days by mail, he said.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board authorized First Federal to establish TMS.

The lawsuit seeking to block TMS, Delehant charged, was inspired by the State Banking Department at the request of competing banks and savings and loans, he charged.

"This is the same department that permitted state-chartered savings and loans to conduct business through agents located in other communities," he said.

Fremont Savings and Loan, a state chartered institution, has approximately 50 agents in nearby communities to solicit loans and transact other business, he said.

Delehant acknowledged TMS has had some "bugs," but he said they have been worked out.

During an initial six-week test period, Hinky Dinky's account went into the red "for a few hours" on several occasions, he said, because the volume of business was greater than anticipated.

Since then, he said, the computer has been programmed to reject negative balances in Hinky Dinky's account.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Ralph Gillan reiterated his objections to the TMS arrangement set out in his written brief and urged the court to overturn the lower court ruling.

Gillan said it is a matter for the Legislature to decide, noting that there is a bill in the Legislature to authorize TMS and similar systems.

Gillan's brief noted what an advantage TMS has been to First Federal. From Jan. 1 to March 1, 1974, Hinky Dinky processed deposits totaling $333,085 and withdrawals of $40,605.

U.S. Census Figures Out On '72 Sales

In 1972, Lincoln's 1,522 retail businesses had sales of approximately $413 million, according to a report on Nebraska's retail trade just released by the Census Bureau.

The report presents for the first time retail trade data for metro areas, cities and counties.

Report statistics show that retail businesses in the Omaha-Iowa Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area (metro area) had sales of almost $1.3 billion in 1972.

Omaha food stores had the largest sales volume, $239 million, while Lincoln's food stores had sales of $66 million, according to the report.

Another Census report on Nebraska's 1972 wholesale trade showed the Lincoln metro area's 281 businesses with $440 million in sales. In the report, Omaha's metro area wholesale businesses had sales totaling $3.3 billion in 1972.

Lumbermen Expect Better Sales

Omaha (AP) — Lumber dealers are looking for an upturn in business this year, but more demand could renew lumber price increases, officials of the Mid-America Lumberman's Assn. said Wednesday.

The officials were in Omaha for the Nebraska Building Material Dealers two-day convention and show. The dealers group is part of the lumbermen's organization.

John L. Hoppe Sr., first vice president of the association and chairman of John L. Hoppe Lumber Co. in Lincoln, said a 10 to 15% increase in home building may result in a 30 to 50% increase in the price of lumber. He said lumber prices traditionally react sharply to upturns in demand.

The lumbermen's President Carl Kottmeier said the price increases may not be that high. He said that because of the slump in building, lumber mills currently are operating at about 30% capacity. Therefore, price hikes may be tempered by the industry's ability to crank up unused production capacity.

Kottmeier is president of the Jefferson County Lumber Co. of Imperial, Mo.

He said lumber prices have dropped to 1972 levels because of the construction decline. He said building materials represent 20 to 25% of the cost of a house.

Hoppe said the lumber dealers' business loss has been tempered by an upturn in purchases for additions to homes, remodeling and do-it-yourself projects.

Kottmeier and Hoppe said business has suffered most on the coasts and in metropolitan areas, with rural area lumber yards faring better.

"Many agricultural yards are better off than they've ever been," said Stan Sheets, president of Valley Building Center in Superior, and a director of the lumbermen group. He said favorable grain prices have encouraged farmers to proceed with building projects.

NBC Files Suits Against Boetel

Omaha (AP) — Control of an apartment complex operated by Boetel and Co. has been granted to a loan company and the National Bank of Commerce Trust and Savings Association of Lincoln has filed seven lawsuits against investors of the financially troubled Boetel and Co.

Six lawsuits were against couples who had pledged to repay $85,000 each on a $500,000 loan from the bank to two Boetel companies in January 1974. The seventh was against G. Charles Boetel and his wife, Patricia, seeking repayment of $500,000.

The lawsuit said the two companies were behind in their payments as promised and said $302,000 had been loaned to Boetel and Co. and $193,000 to Boetel Properties, Inc.

The lawsuits asked the District Court to order the investors to pay the money up to the limit they had promised.

Commercial Federal Savings and Loan Association received control of the Four Pines Apartments and sued Boetel and Co. for missing loan payments. The foreclosure is one of several filed in District Court recently against Boetel properties.

District Court Judge John

Murphy signed an order allowing Commercial Federal to assume immediate control of the 12-unit apartments. The company said it loaned $100,000 to the Four Pines Limited Partnership, Boetel and Co. and West Omaha Development Co.

Couples named in the suits filed by National Bank of Commerce, besides the Boetels, are:

Howard and Judith M. Vann, Ewel J. and Barbara J. Karnes, Donald F. and Patricia K. Day, Joe M. and Virginia Klateman, Warren S. and Judy Zweiback, all of Omaha, and John J. and Marion J. Mortiz, Scottsdale, Ariz.

'Doughnut Case' Youth May Return Home

By DEAN TERRILL
 Southeast Nebraska Bureau
 Beatrice — "I'm just looking for someone I can call Mom and Dad."

After seven solid hours of testimony in a highly unusual Gage County juvenile court proceeding, it appeared Thursday night that 17-year-old Gerald Ackerman's own parents will soon be answering to those names again.

But only conditionally, on probationary terms yet to be set down by Gage County Judge Dennis Winkle in the much-publicized "doughnut case."

The Beatrice youth was only 7 when he was taken from his parents, Robert and Viola Ackerman, and placed in the Grace Children's Home at Henderson in June 1966. The case took on statewide implications when the Nebraska Civil Liberties Union sided with the parents in filing a motion for the boy's return home.

It was abundantly plain from nearly a dozen witnesses testifying Thursday, however, that much more was involved than the "less than 25 cents worth of doughnuts" which brought the boy before the court. As Judge Winkle said in a concluding summary, "Juvenile court is not primarily concerned about what a child did, but what can be done for him."

Judge Under Fire

Whether the judge had done the right thing for young Ackerman, currently in a Grace-connected foster home at Henderson, was a main point of dispute in the dramatic hearing. Winkle has come under fire from some quarters, including the NCLU, for his handling of this and other juvenile cases.

Since his original decision — and the one in this proceeding — hinged largely upon the youth's family, the Ackermans and their eight children came under more open scrutiny than usual, Winkle said.

What NCLU attorney Herbert Friedman referred to in closing arguments as "the Ackermans' dirty linen" included a string of arrests dating to 1945, mostly for intoxication, against the construction worker husband. Evidence also showed his driver's license is currently suspended for drunken driving and that he served time in the State Reformatory in 1951 for failing to make child support payments.

Ackerman, 45, is a cement finisher for an Omaha firm. His wife, 52, works part-time at a Salvation Army store.

It was also brought out that an older brother was sent to the Kearney Boy's Industrial School prior to Gerald's placement and that a sister had run away from home while on court probation. All of the children living in the home in 1960 had been taken from the couple by court order for a three-month period.

Family In Debt

Testimony also showed that the family was in debt at least $2,400, not counting $875 toward Gerald's support ordered by the court at $25 per month starting in 1968. A psychiatric social worker also testified that Mrs.

Ackerman had told her last month that the couple was "thinking about bankruptcy."

The same social worker, Mrs. Jane Kinsey of Lincoln urged that the youth be returned to his parents under some type of supervision. Basing her conclusion mainly on a 1½-hour visit with the Ackermans and a Henderson interview with their son, she was asked by Friedman near the hearing's end if "any of the dirty linen of the Ackerman family" had changed her mind.

Answering negatively, she said that "families should be worked with in order to stay together."

The husband, breaking into tears when asked if he loved his son, pledged to join Alcoholics Anonymous and to "try most anything" if the youth is returned home.

'Second Chance'

In an emotional closing argument, Friedman said the family "is asking for nothing more than a second chance." He said the Gage County probation system reminded him of "a man walking forward with his head to the rear."

Friedman also asked that Winkle disqualify himself from the case because of the judge's criticism of former probation officer William Jordan as quoted in a recent Lincoln Journal article. Friedman said the attitude indicated a "preconceived" opinion toward probation office records introduced as evidence. Winkle denied the motion.

Continuing the case as the hearing adjourned at 6:50 p.m., Winkle stressed that he was not committing himself to a decision. But he added that "it is likely" he will permit the youth to return home under certain restrictions.

He instructed County Atty. Steve Brott and the other three attorneys to submit a probation-type plan taking into account such factors as Gerald's educational future and the father's alcohol problem.

Residing the past 1½ years with Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Davis, Henderson foster parents working with the Grace home, young Ackerman was said to have "made great progress" by the couple. He is a junior at Henderson High School and has indicated interest in an art career.

Testimony showed that the doughnut stealing incident, while it first brought the boy into court, followed several other petty thefts. It was also brought out that Ackerman was caught stealing two magazines in a York store last week.

I-80 Chain Reaction Collision Blamed On 'Very Dense' Fog

Lincoln Star Special
 Waco — A chain reaction collision near here early Thursday, involving four semi-trailer trucks, one auto and 36 head of cattle, left one trucker hospitalized and blocked the westbound lane of Interstate 80 for five hours.

The 6:30 a.m. multiple accident was blamed on the "very dense" fog in the area, with visibility down to about 50 feet, according to York County Deputy Sheriff Myron Nabor.

A 33-year-old Holdrege truck driver, Sam Musia, was reported in "satisfactory" condition at a York hospital Thursday afternoon with face, chest, arm and knee injuries.

Total damage in the crash, including the loss of 12 head of cattle, was estimated at near $91,300; Nabor said.

The deputy sheriff's report on the accident follows:

Musia's truck, loaded with 36 head of cattle, ran into the rear of a Gooch Milling and Elevator Co. semi, driven by Victor Lind of Lincoln. Twelve of the cattle were killed as the Holdrege man's truck overturned, completely blocking traffic in the westbound lane.

Plowing into the upset truck was a Snyder Fiber Glass Co. truck driven by Richard Firey of Lincoln. Firey suffered minor knee and arm injuries as his vehicle wound up partially in the ditch.

The fourth truck involved, driven by Raymond Massie of Lubbock, Tex., ran into wreckage of both the upset Musia semi and Firey truck. The Texan suffered a knee and hand injury.

Meanwhile, cattle from the overturned Musia semi wandered on the interstate and one was hit by an auto driven by an Iowan, causing $1,000 damage to the car.

Nabor reported the following damage breakdown: Gooch truck, $9,000; Speedway Transportation of Holdrege semi (driven by Musia) a total loss, $30,000, and cattle loss, $3,500; Snyder Fiber Glass Co. of Lincoln truck, $9,000; Gifford Hill Co. of Lubbock truck, a total loss, $30,000; and the Iowa car, $1,000.

I-80 Chain Reaction Collision Blamed On 'Very Dense' Fog

North Platte Man Held In Assault, Burglaries

North Platte (AP) — A North Platte man was being held in lieu of $15,000 bond Thursday after being charged with assault on a police officer and two counts of burglary.

The charges stemmed from an early morning incident in which the suspect, Byron Pelton, 18, allegedly threatened police officers with a shotgun.

Police Chief Bernard Colligan said officers noticed a break-in at a men's wear store shortly before 2 a.m. Thursday. Clothing and money apparently taken in the burglary were found outside the store.

A short time later, officers discovered another break-in at a nearby sporting goods store.

Officials said the suspect, who had a weapon, was still in the sporting goods store when the break-in was discovered.

Police and state troopers surrounded the building.

When the suspect came out, he allegedly threatened police with a shotgun, but was overpowered and taken into custody without a shot being fired, according to Colligan.

Handling Of Garbage Questioned

Albion (AP) — A commercial garbage hauler here has told the city council that a possible conflict of interest exists because a member of the council is hauling refuse from the city trash compactor, even though he is in charge of the compactor.

Gayland Cox said Councilman Don Rutten is hauling the refuse, even though W. D. Green of Albion has the contract to do the job.

Rutten had no comment, however Green acknowledged he has the contract and Rutten has been doing most of the hauling from the compactor, however he said Rutten is not being paid.

Cox also told the council he feels city regulations on hauling garbage from the compactor are aimed at him personally.

He said he had received a letter from city officials telling him he had until March 11 to bring his truck into compliance with rules that require the trucks to be either covered or the trash packed to prevent littering.

Cox said his truck is covered and the litter under control.

Henry Grasmick Dies in Crash

Lisco (AP) — A Hastings man died Wednesday night of injuries sustained earlier in the day in a one-car crash two miles west of here on U.S. 26.

The State Patrol identified the victim as Henry Grasmick, 65. Officers said he was riding in a car driven by his wife, Isa, 69, when she lost control of the car and left the road over a bridge abutment.

Officers said the woman was thrown from the car as it rolled. Her husband sustained severe chest injuries and was taken to an Oshkosh hospital. He was later transferred to a Scottsbluff hospital, where he died Wednesday night.

Mrs. Grasmick is hospitalized in good condition with a broken collarbone.

Top Breadwinners Reported Jobless

Omaha (AP) — A State Division of Employment survey shows many breadwinners or heads of the household are unemployed.

At the same time, a statistical summary by the State Department of Labor showed 33,570 job seekers registered with the state in January, as compared with 24,915 a year ago.

Manpower analyst Wendell Olson said Nebraska employers were offering 2,551 jobs through state employment offices in January, compared with 4,519 in January 1974.

In Beatrice, the report estimated that primary

Records Check Shows LES Not Actually Behind

A check of Nebraska Public Power District records has shown Lincoln Electric System is not behind in payment for construction work done by NPPD.

The check stemmed from a statement by NPPD deputy general manager Don Schaufelberger at a February NPPD board of directors meeting that NPPD would start requiring advance payments from LES on construction work.

Schaufelberger told the board LES owed NPPD about $100,000 for work contracts dating back to 1972.

In a March 1 Lincoln Star story, LES director Walt Canney attacked Schaufelberger's report as totally wrong.

FM Station To Open Serving Ogallala Area

Ogallala (AP) — A new radio station serving the Ogallala area will hit the air this summer, according to an announcement made Thursday.

Willard Soper, president of the Industrial Business Corp., said construction of the tower and transmitter building for the new FM station will begin as soon as the city approves a construction permit.

Soper said tentative plans call for the station's studios to be located in downtown Ogallala.

The 3,000-watt station will operate between the hours of 6 a.m. and 12 a.m., seven days a week, Soper said.

Industrial Business, formed by a group of local business men and farmers, was granted a station construction permit by the Federal Communication Commission (FCC) in January of this year. In granting the permit, the FCC rejected an FM construction permit application by the owners of Ogallala's other existing station, KOGA-AM.

The denial of the KOGA application has been appealed to a federal court in Washington, D.C.

Soper said his firm has applied for the call letters KIBC-FM, the letters standing for the corporate name.

Manpower analyst Wendell Olson said Nebraska employers were offering 2,551 jobs through state employment offices in January, compared with 4,519 in January 1974.

In Beatrice, the report estimated that primary breadwinners were jobless in 83% of the households where one or more were employed.

The lowest estimate was at Nebraska City where the figure was 33%. A number of women in Nebraska City have been unemployed at a utility manufacturing plant, and presumably are the second income wage earners in a number of households.

Other estimates of jobless households, where the unemployed person is the primary breadwinner, included:

Columbus 45%, Fremont 68, Grand Island 40, Hastings 44, Kearney 75, McCook 74, Lincoln 40, Norfolk 60, North Platte 80, Omaha 43, Sidney 80 and Scottsbluff 67.

None of the estimates are based on firm statistical data because the state does not collect information to determine which households are single income households and which are double-or-triple income households.

Don Haase of the State Employment Service said, "These are educated guesses by local office managers and were based on their own knowledge and experience with the labor market."

Food Price Spiral Easing?

The U.S. Department of Agriculture in its monthly Food Marketing Alert reported that supplies for most food commodities are plentiful to adequate for March.

Yet, in spite of the favorable outlook, food prices continued to climb slightly.

Up 7 Cents In Year
Partly due to a four-cent decrease from last month's average total (from $13.15 to $13.11 this month), the total bill for the 17 items has increased only seven cents since March 1974. Still, this month's total is well above the $12.53 total last August.

An itemization of the food survey items shows that meat, for the most part, has decreased in price during the past year.

For example, ground beef, which sold for $1.01 per pound one year ago, is now retailing at an average price of 79¢ per pound. In addition, round steak has dropped 12¢ per pound in the last year and 26¢ (from $1.88 to $1.62 per pound) since last September.

These beef prices could be a reflection of high beef production, which is 8% above last year and well above the 1972-74 average for March, according to the USDA.

Chicken Prices Down
Likewise, chicken has decreased two cents per pound over the last year, even though the USDA report indicated that the production of broiler-fryers is 8% below both the March 1974 and the 1972-74 averages.

The USDA report also stated that egg production is 4% below last March's average, but prices in Lincoln stores have continued to decrease during the past year. One dozen of Grade A large eggs cost 82¢ last March, 74¢ last September and 69¢ this month.

And, whereas milk prices have stabilized at 76¢ per half gallon over the past year and flour has dropped from $1.14 per five-pound bag to $1.03, some pork prices reflect a below average, but adequate, supply situation.

The price of one pound of bacon has risen nine cents in the last year (from $1.60 to $1.69 per pound). But, ironically, pork loin chops have decreased 21¢ during the past year due to advertised specials.

Sandwiches Increase
Connoisseurs of quick and easy sandwiches will continue to pay a high price for convenience, as tuna has increased nine cents for a 6 1/2-ounce can during the past year and peanut butter, which sold for 57¢ per 12-ounce jar, is now being sold for 68¢. Making matters even worse for sandwich-eaters is the price of bread. A one-pound loaf of bread cost as much as 52¢ two months ago. Now it is costing each consumer 49¢ per loaf, which is six cents above the price last March.

Vegetables and vegetable products also have shown a substantial increase during the past year. Just last March, consumers were paying 29¢ per 16-ounce can of cut green beans. Now green beans are costing 38¢ for a 16-ounce can.

The story is the same for frozen peas, which cost 39¢ for a one-pound package a year ago and now have increased to 51¢.

Ketchup, costing 36¢ for a 14-ounce bottle in March 1975, now is sold at 45¢. In addition, a 16-ounce can of pork and beans, which sold for 27¢ a year ago and 16¢ in July, 1973, is selling at the going rate of 32¢.

Sugar Price Down
Although not included in the totals, a survey of sugar prices indicates a decline in the cost of sugar. An all-time high in the price of sugar was reached in December 1974, when a five-pound bag of cane sugar was selling for $3.02 and beet sugar cost $3.11.

At that time, sugar sales declined resulting in an unusually high sugar inventory and lower prices, according to an Associated Press report. Consequently, cane sugar currently is selling for $2.10 per five-pound bag and beet sugar costs $2.07.

These prices are still somewhat higher than last September's prices of $1.93 for cane sugar and $1.90 for beet sugar.

Adults Returning To College May Face Serious Problems

Janesville, Wis. (AP) — Thinking of going back to school after a few years away from the ivy covered halls?

Think twice, says a University of Wisconsin counselor who specializes in the problems of adults who want to go back to college after years in offices, factories and kitchens.

Carla Heimerl, who conducts seminars for would-be adult students, knows what she's talking about.

When she returned to school in 1967, after 16 years as a fulltime housewife and mother of five, she found that going back to college might be fashionable, but it isn't easy.

"It is rather common for the returning adult not to know what he wants to do. Picking a major may seem difficult."

However, Mrs. Heimerl said an even bigger hurdle is the uncertainty and out-of-place feeling many returning adults get when they suddenly find themselves in a youth-dominated environment that scarcely resembles college as they remember it.

"The fear of failure may be threatening," she said. "For years the returning adult students have been in another role. They have been on the line at General Motors or taking care of home and family."

"Sometimes they may feel uneasy when asked why they are coming back. Perhaps they are afraid of making a commitment, not knowing if they can compete, or afraid of failing, losing face."

Mrs. Heimerl urges adults thinking about going back to school to set definite but attainable goals for themselves: smaller goals first, such as simply finishing one course.

She asked her seminar students to set long- and short-range goals for themselves before they ever set foot back on campus.

There can also be problems with the reaction of children when Mom or Dad goes back to school, she said. But most families can work things out by talking together about their school work and perhaps even helping each other with homework.

She said friends sometimes resent the adult who returns to school and insist on manufacturing their own reasons for the return.

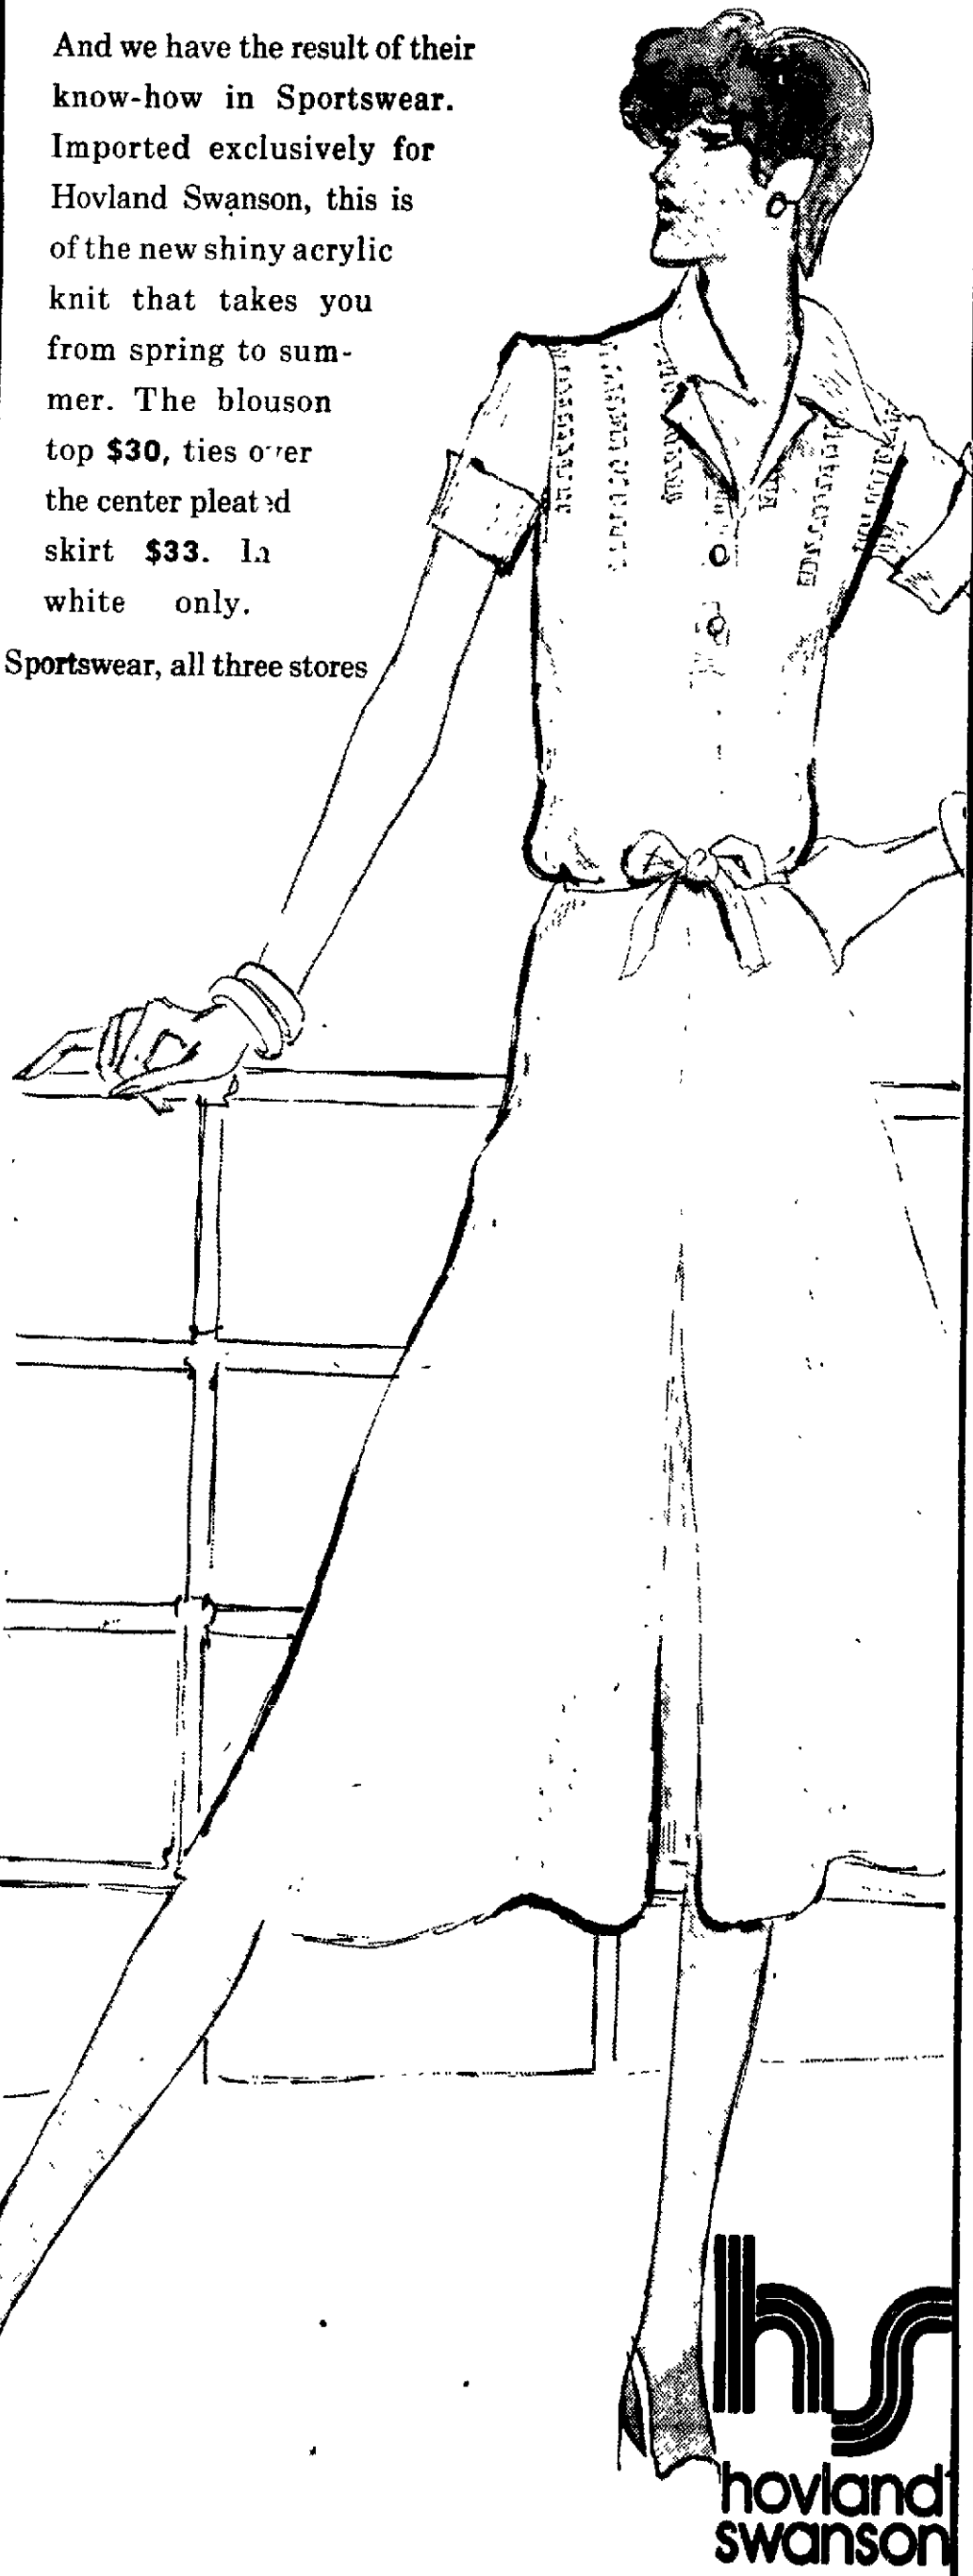

"First, there is the image. 'Aren't you satisfied at home? Aren't you and your husband getting along?' Even if it is only for enrichment, older students should feel free to go back to school."

After all, the initial problems and frustrations of returning to school are worth it, Mrs. Heimerl maintains. "Once you're over the hurdle of the adjustments and conflicts, the initial difficulties, there is such joy and excitement in going back."

"I had had ... enough of town, of walking home, hung over, beaten up, or both. I had had enough of the people, the bartenders, the bars, the cars, the hotels, but mostly, I had had enough of myself. I wanted to lose myself, to ditch these clothes, to outrun this burning sun, to stand beneath the clouds and have my shadow erased, myself along with it."

Author James Welch has chosen his words carefully.

With a subtle intensity, he has woven a narrative that brings together all the despair, the frustration, the weariness of his people.

And perhaps only a person like Welch, a Blackfeet Indian, could have done it.

"I have seen works written about Indians by whites," says Welch in the biographical notes accompanying his new book, "Winter In The Blood" (Harper & Row).

'Winter' Canvas Of Indian Weariness

First Book
Welch, who lives and writes near Missoula, Mont., has gone a long way towards proving the validity of that statement in "Winter In The Blood," his first book.

Without sentimentality, without leaning too heavily on political and psychological analysis, he has defined the abysmal existence of his Native American brothers and sisters.

The modern-day reservation Indian A lot has been written about him. Rhetoric and research abound.

Through the vehicle of a nameless narrator, Welch tells a story of cultural adaptation that amounts to nothing more than cultural suicide.

Cruel Contradiction

cruel contradiction of which they are unaware.

Teresa, a middle-aged Indian woman, the proprietor of a 360-acre farm, who derides her own people. Who looks, for spiritual sustenance to a local priest, "a round man with distant eyes, who refused to set foot on the reservation."

Lame Bull, her newly acquired husband. Crafty, a prosperous cattleman.

Only the narrator — Teresa's son by her first husband, dead ten years: drunk and frozen in a borrow pit — begins to comprehend what has happened.

"Again I felt that helplessness of being in a world of stalking white men. But those Indians down at Gable's were no bargain either. I was a stranger to both and both had beaten me."

Meaningless Days

meaningless, endless weeks roll by for the young man, the anonymous character Welch has created.

Fleeting reminders of what has gone before only serve to unsettle him: His aged grandmother, rocking her days away in a chair in the living room; Yellow Calf, a withered, blind man who lives alone, several miles from the young man's home.

But in the end, nothing matters. Drunken trips to town, painful memories, his family — nothing. "I felt no hatred, no love, no guilt, no conscience, nothing but a distance that had grown through the years."

'Not Manufactured'
Hopefully, an Indian writer will have the toughness and fairness to present his material in a way that is not manufactured by conventional stance.

Welch writes. "Whites have to adopt a stance; Indians already have one."

"Winter In The Blood" is real. Welch has accomplished his goal.

Food Price Spiral Easing?

The U.S. Department of Agriculture in its monthly Food Marketing Alert reported that supplies for most food commodities are plentiful to adequate for March.

Yet, in spite of the favorable outlook, food prices continued to climb slightly.

Up 7 Cents In Year

Partly due to a four-cent decrease from last month's average total (from $13.15 to $13.11 this month), the total bill for the 17 items has increased only seven cents since March 1974. Still, this month's total is well above the $12.53 total last August.

An itemization of the food survey items shows that meat, for the most part, has decreased in price during the past year.

For example, ground beef, which sold for $1.01 per pound one year ago, is now retailing at an average price of 79¢ per pound. In addition, round steak has dropped 12¢ per pound in the last year and 26¢ (from $1.88 to $1.62 per pound) since last September.

These beef prices could be a reflection of high beef production, which is 8% above last year and well above the 1972-74 average for March, according to the USDA.

Chicken Prices Down

Likewise, chicken has decreased two cents per pound over the last year, even though the USDA report indicated that the production of broiler-fryers is 8% below both the March 1974 and the 1972-74 averages.

The USDA report also stated that egg production is 4% below last March's average, but prices in Lincoln stores have continued to decrease during the past year. One dozen of Grade A large eggs cost 82¢ last March, 74¢ last September and 69¢ this month.

And, whereas milk prices have stabilized at 76¢ per half gallon over the past year and flour has dropped from $1.14 per five-pound bag to $1.03, some pork prices reflect a below average, but adequate, supply situation.

The price of one pound of bacon has risen nine cents in the last year (from $1.60 to $1.69 per pound). But, ironically, pork loin chops have decreased 21¢ during the past year due to advertised specials.

Sandwiches Increase

Connoisseurs of quick and easy sandwiches will continue to pay a high price for convenience, as tuna has increased nine cents for a 6½-ounce can during the past year and peanut butter, which sold for 57¢ per 12-ounce jar, is now being sold for 68¢. Making matters even worse for sandwich-eaters is the price of bread: A one-pound loaf of bread cost as much as 52¢ two months ago. Now it is costing each consumer 49¢ per loaf, which is six cents above the price last March.

Vegetables and vegetable products also have shown a substantial increase during the past year. Just last March, consumers were paying 29¢ per 16-ounce can of cut green beans. Now green beans are costing 38¢ for a 16-ounce can.

The story is the same for frozen peas, which cost 39¢ for a one-pound package a year ago and now have increased to 51¢.

Ketchup, costing 36¢ for a 14-ounce bottle in March 1975, now is sold at 45¢. In addition, a 16-ounce can of pork and beans, which sold for 27¢ a year ago and 16¢ in July, 1973, is selling at the going rate of 32¢.

Sugar Price Down

Although not included in the totals, a survey of sugar prices indicates a decline in the cost of sugar. An all-time high in the price of sugar was reached in December 1974, when a five-pound bag of cane sugar was selling for $3.02 and beet sugar cost $3.11.

At that time, sugar sales declined resulting in an unusually high sugar inventory and lower prices, according to an Associated Press report. Consequently, cane sugar currently is selling for $2.10 per five-pound bag and beet sugar costs $2.07.

These prices are still somewhat higher than last September's prices of $1.93 for cane sugar and $1.90 for beet sugar.

Adults Returning To College May Face Serious Problems

Janesville, Wis. (AP) — Thinking of going back to school after a few years away from the ivy covered halls?

Think twice, says a University of Wisconsin counselor who specializes in the problems of adults who want to go back to college after years in offices, factories and kitchens.

Carla Heimerl, who conducts seminars for would-be adult students, knows what she's talking about.

When she returned to school in 1967, after 16 years as a fulltime housewife and mother of five, she found that going back to college might be fashionable, but it isn't easy.

"It is rather common for the returning adult not to know what he wants to do. Picking a major may seem difficult."

However, Mrs. Heimerl said an even bigger hurdle is the uncertainty and out-of-place feeling many returning adults get when they suddenly find themselves in a youth-dominated environment that scarcely resembles college as they remember it.

"The fear of failure may be threatening," she said. "For years the returning adult students have been in another role. They have been on the line at General Motors or taking care of home and family.

"Sometimes they may feel uneasy when asked why they are coming back. Perhaps they are afraid of making a commitment, not knowing if they can compete, or afraid of failing, losing face."

Mrs. Heimerl urges adults thinking about going back to school to set definite but attainable goals for themselves: smaller goals first, such as simply finishing one course.

She asked her seminar students to set long- and short-range goals for themselves before they ever set foot back on campus.

There can also be problems with the reaction of children when Mom or Dad goes back to school, she said. But most families can work things out by talking together about their school work and perhaps even helping each other with homework.

She said friends sometimes resent the adult who returns to school and insist on manufacturing their own reasons for the return.

"First, there is the image. 'Aren't you satisfied at home?' Aren't you and your husband getting along?' Even if it is only for enrichment, older students should feel free to go back to school."

After all, the initial problems and frustrations of returning to school are worth it, Mrs. Heimerl maintains. "Once you're over the hurdle of the adjustments and conflicts, the initial difficulties, there is such joy and excitement in going back."

DEAR ABBY This is in reference to the 25-year-old girl who signed herself "Over Protected." She wanted her own apartment, was able to support herself, but her mother said: "Only tramps have their own apartments. Nice girls live at home."

Abby, I had the same problem. Only my problem was my father. I was 23 when I wanted to move out of my parents' home and into my own apartment. I was able to support myself, but my father insisted that I wanted to move so I could have men running in and out of my apartment all hours of the night. In fact, after I moved, he even watched my apartment for weeks, hoping he could say to my mother. "See? I told you so!"

Well, it never happened.

Abby, I was raised in a religious home where I was taught right from wrong, and I never forgot my upbringing. Parents should realize that grown children need to get out on their own, make their own decisions and become self-sufficient. And if they had the proper training and example, they will not be corrupted by temptation.

Your advice to "Over Protected" was great ... "Cut the Cord — and don't feel guilty."

DEAR ABBY A reader signed "Made My Plans" wrote that she wanted to leave her eyes and kidneys to medical science to benefit anyone who needed them after her death. Her problem was her daughter, who said: "I am not going to let them cut you up, etc."

I wish "Made My Plans" and her daughter could have been at our house last Sunday when my husband, who desperately needed a kidney transplant, was trying to explain to our five-year-old daughter why he was crying.

He had just received a telephone call informing him that a donor was available, and to please come to the hospital for a possible transplant.

Bridge

Test Your Bidding Ability

By B. JAY BECKER

Your right-hand opponent bids One Club, neither side vulnerable. What would you bid with each of the following six hands?

1. ♠AQJ10 ♥KJ85 ♦Q96 ♣K3
2. ♠AQ84 ♥6 ♦KQJ73 ♣K82
3. ♠KQJ9852 ♥10 ♦Q874 ♣6
4. ♠AQ853 ♥Q962 ♦K7 ♣K4
5. ♠KQJ9852 ♥10 ♦AQJ4 ♣6
6. ♠A94 ♥AJ ♦QJ983 ♣AJ7

1. Double. This tells partner you have the values for an opening bid and support for at least two of the three remaining suits. As you have good support for both majors, the double is preferable to overcalling with a notrump, which is a reasonable alternative bid.

2. One diamond. This is unquestionably an underbid—an overall in the one level more often than not denotes less than an opening bid—but you are unfortunately in a position where anything you do contravenes one principle or another. Thus, it would be dangerous to double to show your high-card strength, for there is too much danger of your partner's responding in hearts and creating insoluble difficulties. You plan to bid spades secondarily—and in that way belatedly show both the strength and the distribution of your hand.

3. Three spades. This is a preemptive bid, pure and simple, and indicates a weak hand with long spades. It is essentially an effort to crowd the bidding to make it difficult for the opponents to reach their best contract.

4. Double. This is probably better in the long run than one spade, which is the alternative bid. In effect, in such situations, you weigh the advantage of doubling and possibly finding a heart fit with partner, against the advantage of making the more straightforward bid of one spade. A majority of experts would favor the double.

5. Four spades. This leap to game combines the virtue of preemption with a legitimate chance of making the contract. The jump to four puts a lot of pressure on the enemy and may easily cause them to do the wrong thing.

6. One notrump. This is by far the best way of describing your hand. True, you have the high-card values for a double, but that would not describe the balanced nature of the hand. The notrump bid shows 16 to 18 points, notrump distribution and either one or two club stoppers. That's what you have, and that's how you get the message across in one motion.

DEAR MOM: I'm with Bob.

DEAR ABBY: Here's one I'll bet you've never been asked before: About once a week, my mother, father, husband and I get together and play penny poker. I invited our 12-year-old son to sit in with us, and I taught him how to play. He caught on very quickly and loves the game. He has a newspaper route, so he can hold his own with the rest of us, but now I'm wondering if perhaps I didn't make a mistake.

Are we instilling the love of gambling in this boy? Should I now refuse to let him play? Now that he has come to enjoy it so much, he begs to join us.

Thank you for some sound advice.

Bridge Test Your Bidding Ability

By B. JAY BECKER

Your right-hand opponent bids One Club, neither side vulnerable. What would you bid with each of the following six hands?

1. ♠AQJ10 ♥KJ85 ♦Q96 ♣K3
2. ♠AQ84 ♥6 ♦KQJ73 ♣K82
3. ♠KQJ9852 ♥10 ♦Q874 ♣6
4. ♠AQ853 ♥Q962 ♦K7 ♣K4
5. ♠KQJ9852 ♥10 ♦AQJ4 ♣6
6. ♠A94 ♥AJ ♦QJ983 ♣AJ7

1. Double. This tells partner you have the values for an opening bid and support for at least two of the three remaining suits. As you have good support for both majors, the double is preferable to overcalling with a notrump, which is a reasonable alternative bid.

2. One diamond. This is unquestionably an underbid—an overcall in the one level more often than not denotes less than an opening bid—but you are unfortunately in a position where anything you do contravenes one principle or another. Thus, it would be dangerous to double to show your high-card strength, for there is too much danger of your partner's responding in hearts and creating insoluble difficulties. You plan to bid spades secondarily—and in that way belatedly show both the strength and the distribution of your hand.

3. Three spades. This is a preemptive bid, pure and simple, and indicates a weak hand with long spades. It is essentially an effort to crowd the bidding to make it difficult for the opponents to reach their best contract.

4. Double. This is probably better in the long run than one spade, which is the alternative bid. In effect, in such situations, you weigh the advantage of doubling and possibly finding a heart fit with partner, against the advantage of making the more straightforward bid of one spade. A majority of experts would favor the double.

5. Four spades. This leap to game combines the virtue of preemption with a legitimate chance of making the contract. The jump to four puts a lot of pressure on the enemy and may easily cause them to do the wrong thing.

6. One notrump. This is by far the best way of describing your hand. True, you have the high-card values for a double, but that would not describe the balanced nature of the hand. The notrump bid shows 16 to 18 points, notrump distribution and either one or two club stoppers. That's what you have, and that's how you get the message across in one motion.

PUBLIC NOTICE
AVAILABILITY OF COUNTY PLANNING STUDY REPORT

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Notice is hereby given that Lancaster County has completed the Draft County Planning Study Report for a proposed highway improvement project consisting of grading, culverts and surfacing. The location of the proposed project is on S-503 on the south line of the east half of Section 31 and the south line of Sections 32, 33 and 35, T. 10 N., R. 6 E., P. 3 M.

This report, as required by the County Compliance Addendum to Nebraska's Action Plan, contains certain data needed for a study of a highway project or for the planning period. Since not all highway improvements are of the same magnitude, they will be assigned to each project to indicate the relative importance and the detail of the required study procedure. The above listed project has been tentatively classified as "Non-major" and "Level G." Such classification indicates a minimum degree of study and does not require an Environmental Impact Statement or a Negative Declaration.

Copies of this report are available for public inspection at the office of the Lancaster County Engineer, County-County Building, Lincoln, Nebraska.

Comments relative to the report may be submitted to the above address until April 4, 1975. Following that date, all comments received will be reviewed and the Final Planning Study Report will be prepared.

Knights Hit Spartans, 56-49

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

Patient, poised and proud Lincoln Southeast took a giant step toward its first district basketball championship in 15 years Thursday night with a 56-49 win over Lincoln East before 5,100 fans at Pershing Auditorium.

The Knights will collide Saturday night with tradition-rich Lincoln Northeast, winner of nine district titles in that same 15-year span, for the right to advance to next week's state tournament.

The final score didn't indicate a rout, but Southeast threatened it just that in recording its second win of the season over fourth-ranked East.

The Knights raced to a 14-4 first quarter lead, padded it to 33-18 by halftime and owned a 21-point cushion (51-30), entering the fourth quarter.

East's closing fourth quarter flurry of 19 points made the score respectable, but it came too late and Southeast never let the Spartans creep any closer than seven points.

Southeast coach Wally McNaught said his fifth-ranked team has made a habit of getting off to a fast start in winning 12 of its last 14 games.

"I can't really explain it," he said. "I imagine momentum has something to do with it. It's amazing what confidence will do for anyone, especially a high school basketball player."

East, for the most part, shut down the Knights' inside game, but Southeast countered with impressive outside gunnery, hitting 14 of 25 first half shots, mostly from long range.

"I think East was supporting so much on defending our inside game that we were finding ourselves wide open there early and just did a good job of shooting the ball instinctively," McNaught observed.

East coach Paul Forch, who had indicated earlier in the week that his Spartans couldn't afford to get behind early, reiterated his observation.

"Southeast is a tough team to catch up on because they're such good ball handlers," he said. "They've also got some good shooters. (Dave) Griffin and (Mark) Haas are good shooters for sure."

Griffin hit 7 of 13 shots to finish with a game high 16 points before fouling out with 2:26 left in the game. Southeast's sizable following accorded the 6-7 junior a standing ovation.

Haas finished with 15 points for the city and Eastern 1-80 Conference champion Knights, who'll put a 12-5 record on the line against Northeast's 11-6 mark in the district finals.

"We tried to do a couple things defensively. Timing wise, it just wasn't there," Forch said. "We weren't relaxed. I don't know why."

Randy Lewis, East's 6-6 junior center, and senior guard Karl Voss sparked the Spartans' fourth quarter comeback attempts.

Lewis, who missed all six of his first half field goal attempts, fired in seven of his team-leading 14 points in the final quarter. Voss registered six of his 10 points in the fourth period.

Southeast's district final appearance Saturday night will be its first since 1971.

McNaught emphasized his coaching staff's respect for the Rockets, who defeated the Knights, 43-31, in the two teams'

Southeast, however, avenged that loss with a 48-37 victory on Feb. 24.

"When Northeast is right, they have good balance," McNaught said. "That's been their trademark over the years — good defense and good balance."

NCAA Takes Creighton, Big 8 Teams

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

The Big Eight Conference will have two teams in the NCAA Division I basketball tournament and Creighton's Bluejays, for the second consecutive season, have accepted an at-large bid to play in the event.

Regardless of who wins the championship or who is the other conference representative, the Big Eight teams figure to have a tough time getting out of the subregionals.

The champion, probably Kansas if the Jayhawks beat Oklahoma Saturday afternoon in the regionally televised final game at Lawrence, Kan., has been paired against Notre Dame in a game at Oral Roberts in Tulsa.

The other team selected, probably either Missouri or Kansas State, will be called upon to play Pennsylvania, champion of the Ivy League, in the East subregional at either the Charlotte, N.C., Coliseum or at the Palestra in Philadelphia.

Bluejays have been assigned to the Midwest sub-regional where they'll face the second invited team from the Atlantic Coast Conference.

That team will be determined by the ACC tournament which got underway Thursday night. It could be defending NCAA champion North Carolina State or possibly No. 2 ranked Maryland.

Tom Starr, director of the Big Eight Service Bureau, said in event of a three-way tie for the title, a playoff would be held with one team drawing a bye and meeting the winner of the game between the other two. The playoff would be Monday and Tuesday night at a site to be determined later.

If there is a two-way tie for either first or second, the faculty representatives would decide which team goes where and there would be no playoff.

Assuming Kansas wins, the game against Notre Dame would be a rematch of an early season 75-59 Irish victory at South Bend.

Creighton, ranked in the top 20 of both the AP and UPI polls, has a 20-5 record, including a string of 14 in a row which was broken earlier this week. The Jays end regular play Saturday against Marquette in a sold-out game to be televised from Omaha Civic Auditorium.

Two other post-season tournaments could add additional Big Eight teams, putting added importance to a Nebraska victory over Iowa State in the season finale Saturday night at Ames, Ia.

The College Commissioners Association (CAA) tourney at Louisville March 13-16 will have an eight-team field. Certain entrants will be squads from the Big Ten, Pacific-8, Southeastern, Western and Southern Conferences. The other three teams will come from three of five other conferences — the Mid-American, Missouri Valley, Big Eight, Southwest or ECAC. The ACC is by-passing the event.

York — Friend's Bulldogs shook off the jittery effects of a 6-0 deficit before their Class C Regional matchup with Hastings St. Cecilia here Thursday night was two minutes old, and outscored the Blue Hawks by nine points in the second half to post a 60-51 triumph and earn a trip to Lincoln for the state tournament next Thursday.

Trailing 6-0, and again by six at 12-6 with 2:40 left in the first quarter, Don Pieper's Bulldogs settled down and responded with seven unanswered points, five from 6-4 senior Bob Rohrig to gain the lead for the first time.

The two strong Class C teams then traded baskets and the lead as Friend held a 15-14 advantage at the quarter break.

Four quick points on a field goal and two free throws from Gary Stokes hiked Friend's lead to five, but St. Cecilia broke the Bulldogs' press for eight straight points to force a 22-19 lead for Dennis Henkenius' ball club.

Neither team could gain a decisive advantage for the remainder of the half as the buzzer sounded with the score deadlocked at 28-28.

Pieper reorganized his offensive troup by moving all three of his big men, Rohrig (6-4), Stokes (6-4) and 6-3 Craig Jochim inside to work against the Blue Hawks' zone.

Rohrig and Jochim responded, combining for all 17 of Friend's third quarter points while limiting St. Cecilia to just 11.

Rohrig canned five of seven field goal attempts in the third period while Jochim made good on three of five tries. A lone free throw from Rohrig was the only other Friend tally.

Hastings St. Cecilia connected on only five of 13 fielders as the Blue Hawks pulled within five just one more time before the final buzzer.

Two free throws from Tom Wissing with :50 left in the game brought St. Cecilia to a five point, 54-49 deficit.

But four straight free throws from Stokes and Rohrig tied the decision as both coaches cleared their benches in the last half minute.

St. Cecilia, the mid-Nebraska tournament champions and co-champions of the Nebraska Catholic Conference, finished the season with a respectable 16-7 mark.

Six-five junior Bernie Hajny led St. Cecilia scoring with 21 points while seasoned scoring leader Craig Marble was limited to 16. Wissing also added 12 to the balanced Blue Hawk attack.

The threesome of Rohrig, Stokes and Jochim led Friend with 20, 10, and 13 points respectively.

Friend advanced its record to 22-3 entering the state tourney with its only losses to Wilber, Milford and regional finalist Stromsburg. Wilber and Milford were both eliminated in Friend's Class C district.

Omaha — Class A's defending champion Omaha Central earned a repeat trip to next week's state tournament here Thursday night by defeating Millard, 76-64, in the A-3 district final at Burke.

Fairbury, Crete In Finals

By TOM VINT

Crete and Fairbury fans haven't seen many bad basketball games between their two favorite teams so Friday night's Class B-1 District final at Nebraska Wesleyan shapes up to be another blazing battle.

No. 3-ranked and top-seeded Fairbury ruined Nebraska City, 61-55, in the Thursday opener while No. 6-ranked and second-seeded Crete held off hot-handed Superior, 68-65, enroute to the finals.

In the opener, Nebraska City put a first-half scare into the winners. The Jeffs took a quick 8-2 lead before Nebraska City unwound enough to struggle back to a 14-10 first quarter deficit.

Then the Pioneers then rallied behind sophomore Steve Orton's two baskets and seven of eight free throws to lead 27-20 at halftime.

The Jeffs didn't lose their cool, despite 28 per cent field goal shooting in the first half. With Terry Gregory popping in long set shots, Mark Bangert and Mark Wittler hitting from almost everywhere, Fairbury hit its first 10 shots in the second half, 11 of 13 for the quarter to regain a 42-41 third period lead.

It was Fairbury's turn to cash in on free throws in the fourth quarter as Tim Gregory, Terry's twin brother who suffered a bad cut over his left eye earlier in the quarter, sank six straight charity tries to lead the Jeffs back into the game and Friday's finals.

Wittler, who made his last six field goal attempts, ended as the game's high scorer for Fairbury with 20 points. Bangert added 17 and the Gregory twins accounted for 10 each.

Nebraska City had Steve Orton with 14 and Jeff Ehlers with 13 to lead the scoring. The Pioneers ended the season with a 13-8 record while Fairbury is now 19-3.

Crete's tournament experience showed dividends in the late going as Superior momentarily lost composure in the closing minute of each half.

The Cardinals pushed out to a 16-10 first quarter lead and led 42-32 at the half, thanks to 22 first half points by Daryl Wittstruck.

Superior, which shot 67 per cent through three quarters to spill third-seeded Auburn Tuesday night, still shot at a 51 per cent first half clip but the Crete press accounted for three turnovers and three Wittstruck baskets in the final 26 seconds of the half.

The Wildcats regained Tuesday's form in the third quarter to move within six points, 54-48, at the buzzer. Then Jeff Edwards, Steve Siebecker and Kevin Madsen each hit jumpers to cut Crete's lead to two.

Mark Erickson, who had been sidelined with first half foul trouble, came off the Cardinal bench to get a bucket before

opportunity for a 59-57 lead. The Cardinal pressure forced a turnover and Bill Bals came down for the winners with a big jumper from the side.

The four-point lead proved to be enough as Crete slowed down its rapid offense to match baskets to the end. Superior missed several scoring opportunities which could have sparked the Wildcats but Crete kept the coals to the fire at both ends of the court. Superior couldn't overcome the late pressure.

Crete now takes a 16-4 record into the finals. Superior ended its year at 10-9.

Louisville Tops Dayton, 83-67

Louisville, Ky. (AP) — Junior Bridgeman scored 17 points, leading tournament-bound Louisville past Dayton 83-67 in a college basketball game Thursday night.

Third-ranked Louisville will head for the NCAA tournament next week at Tulsa, after finishing its regular season at 24-2. Dayton finished at 10-16.

Dayton was led by Johnny Davis, whose 19 points left him only four shy of 1,000 points for two seasons.

Knights Hit Spartans, 56-49

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

Patient, poised and proud Lincoln Southeast took a giant step toward its first district basketball championship in 15 years Thursday night with a 56-49 win over Lincoln East before 5,100 fans at Pershing Auditorium.

The Knights will collide Saturday night with tradition rich Lincoln Northeast, winner of nine district titles in that same 15-year span, for the right to advance to next week's state tournament.

The final score didn't indicate a rout, but Southeast threatened to make it just in recording its second win of the season over fourth-ranked East.

The Knights raced to a 14-4 first quarter lead, padded it to 33-18 by halftime and owned a 21-point cushion (51-30), entering the fourth quarter.

East's closing fourth quarter flurry of 19 points made the score respectable, but it came too late and Southeast never let the Spartans creep any closer than seven points.

Southeast coach Wally McNaught said his fifth-ranked team has made a habit of getting off to a fast start in winning 12 of its last 14 games.

"I can't really explain it," he said. "I imagine momentum has something to do with it. It's amazing what confidence will do for anyone, especially a high school basketball player."

East, for the most part, shut down the Knights' inside game, but Southeast countered with impressive outside gunnery, hitting 14 of 25 first half shots, mostly from long range.

"I think East was supporting so much on defending our inside game that we were finding ourselves wide open there early and just did a good job of shooting the ball instinctively," McNaught observed.

East coach Paul Forch, who had indicated earlier in the week that his Spartans couldn't afford to get behind early, reiterated his observation.

"Southeast is a tough team to catch up on because they're such good ball handlers," he said. "They've also got some good shooters. (Dave) Griffin and (Mark) Haas are good shooters for sure."

Griffin hit 7 of 13 shots to finish with a game high 16 points before fouling out with 2:26 left in the game. Southeast's sizable following accorded the 6-7 junior a standing ovation.

Haas finished with 15 points for the city and Eastern I-80 Conference champion Knights, who'll put a 12-5 record on the line against Northeast's 11-6 mark in the district finals.

"We tried to do a couple things defensively. Timing wise, it just wasn't there," Forch said. "We weren't relaxed. I don't know why."

Randy Lewis, East's 6-6 junior center, and senior guard Karl Voss sparked the Spartans' fourth quarter comeback attempts.

Lewis, who missed all six of his first half field goal attempts, fired in seven of his team-leading 14 points in the final quarter. Voss registered six of his 10 points in the fourth period.

Southeast's district final appearance Saturday night will be its first since 1971.

McNaught emphasized his coaching staff's respect for the Rockets, who defeated the Knights, 43-31, in the two teams'

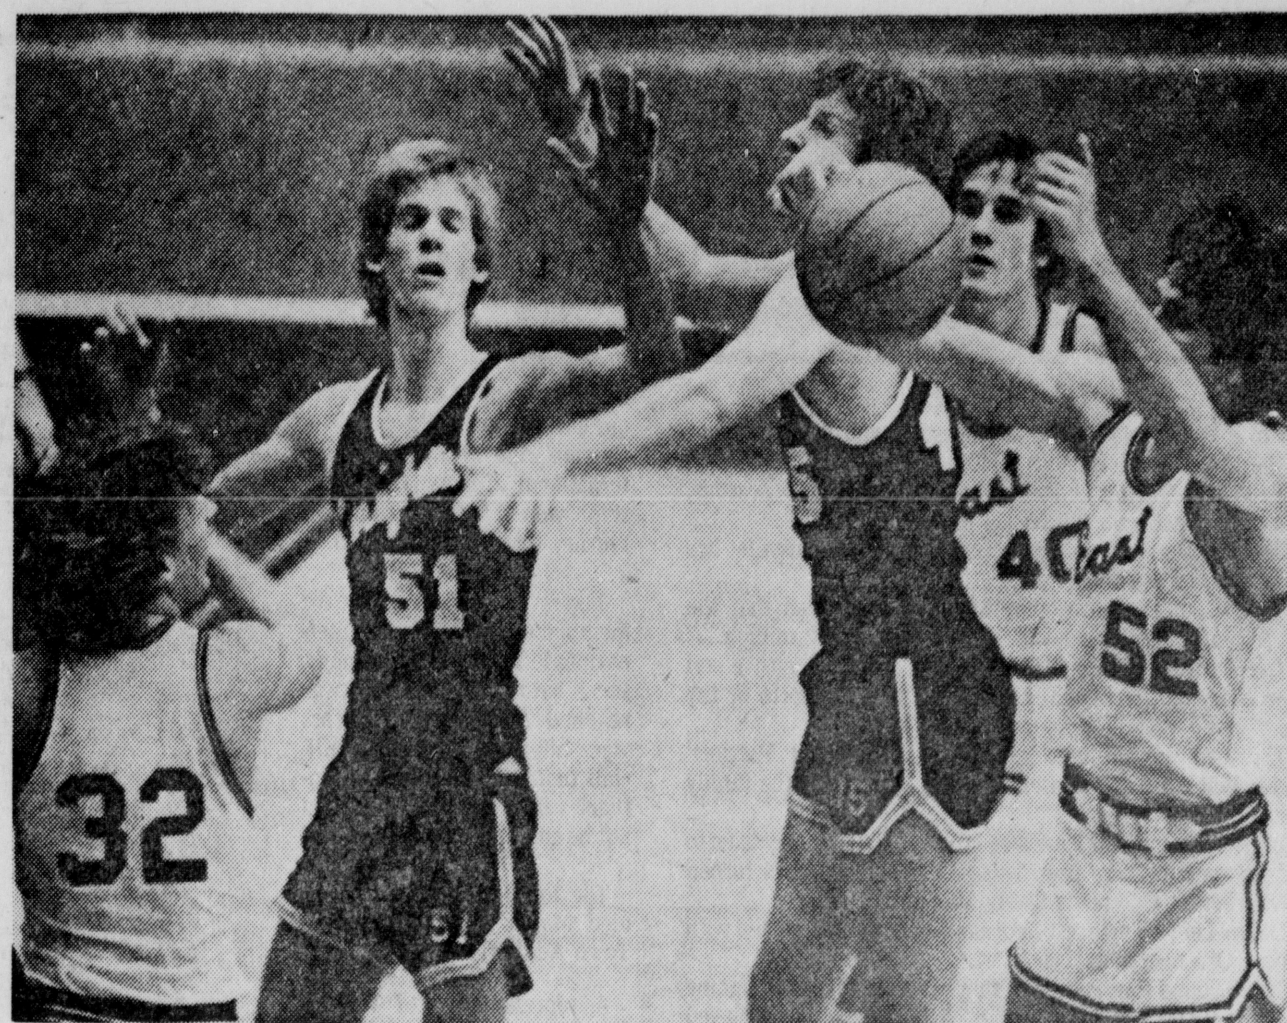

season opener last December.

Southeast, however, avenged that loss with a 48-37 victory on Feb. 24.

"When Northeast, is right, they have good balance," McNaught said. "That's been their trademark over the years — good defense and good balance."

NCAA Takes Creighton, Big 8 Teams

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

The Big Eight Conference will have two teams in the NCAA Division I basketball tournament and Creighton's Bluejays, for the second consecutive season, have accepted an at-large bid to play in the event.

Regardless of who wins the championship or who is the other conference representative, the Big Eight teams figure to have a tough time getting out of the subregionals.

The champion, probably Kansas if the Jayhawks beat Oklahoma Saturday afternoon in the regionally televised final game at Lawrence, Kan., has been paired against Notre Dame in a game at Oral Roberts in Tulsa.

The other team selected, probably either Missouri or Kansas State, will be called upon to play Pennsylvania, champion of the Ivy League, in the East sub-regional at either the Charlotte, N.C., Coliseum or at the Palestra in Philadelphia.

Creighton's chore won't be easy, either. The

Arlington Blasts Gretna, Power Fails In Nightcap

By KEN HAMBLETON
Star Sports Writer

Gretna — "Maybe if we had a ball that glowed we could play," joked Waverly coach Jim Christensen, after the lights went out for about an hour here Thursday during the warmups for the Wahoo-Waverly B-2 District semifinal game.

The Wahoo-Waverly matchup, the second scheduled game of the evening, was postponed until Friday at 7:30 p.m., however. There will be no charge for admission Friday because the lack of lighting prevented any chance of refunding money to the estimated 2,500 spectators attending the contest. The B-2 finals were rescheduled for Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

In the game, that ended just before the lights went out, powerful Arlington breezed past the Gretna Dragons, 48-35.

Arlington took an 11-6 first quarter lead behind the hot shooting of Jeff Nelson. Nelson scored nine of his game high 20 points in the opening period hitting on four of six shots from the field.

Gretna was still plagued by Nelson in the second quarter but this time it was on the boards. Nelson grabbed six second quarter rebounds and teammate Bryan Breach collected seven caroms, to help give the Eagles a 20-11 lead at the intermission.

Arlington remained dominant under the boards in the second half grabbing 23 rebounds to Gretna's 8.

But the Dragons forced the Eagles to turnover the ball 14 times in the second half allowing Gretna 33 shots to Arlington's 24. However, Gretna could only hit 11 of those attempts.

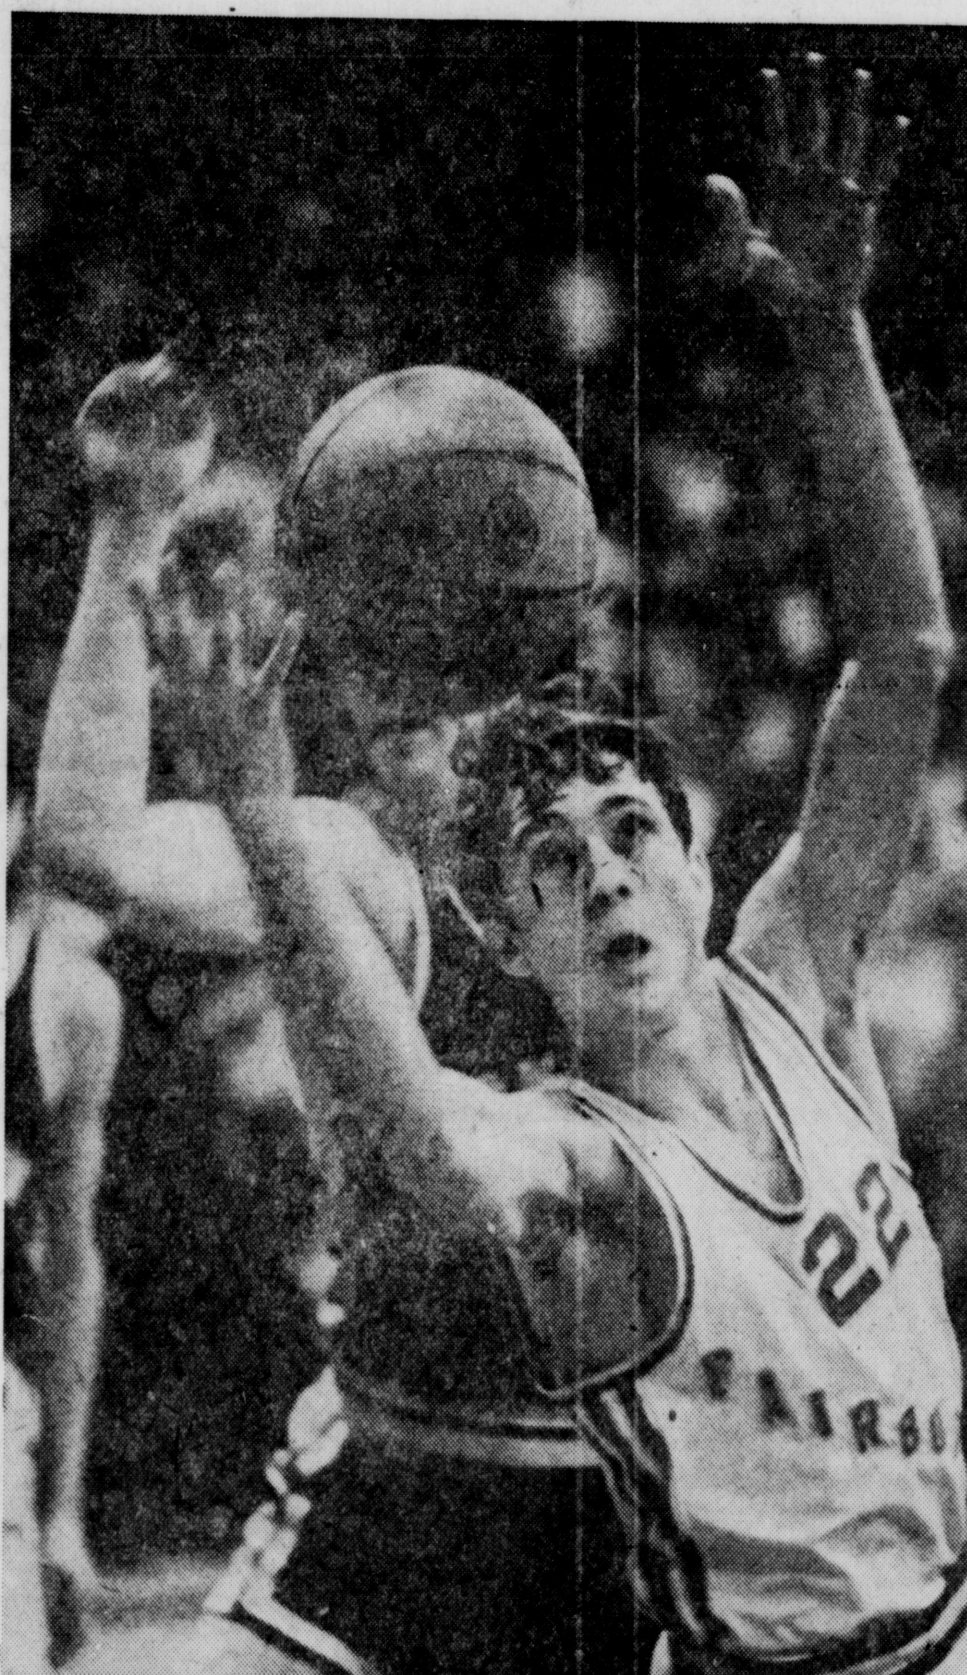

Arlington put the game out of reach in the third quarter outscoring Gretna 15-6.

"I thought we played good defense and we sagged effectively on their big men," said Arlington coach Bob Kremke, whose Eagles are now 16-3.

"Our rebounding was very effective because we played such good defense," he added. "But we turned over the ball way too much. I think it was because they were playing aggressive, more aggressive due to the fact they were behind, and we may have gotten a little conservative," said Kremke.

Arlington will meet the winner of Friday's Waverly-Wahoo game, Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. for the district crown.

Crete and Fairbury fans haven't seen many bad basketball games between their two favorite teams so Friday night's Class B-1 District final at Nebraska Wesleyan shapes up to be another blazing battle.

No. 3-ranked and top-seeded Fairbury ruined Nebraska City, 61-55, in the Thursday opener while No. 6-ranked and second-seeded Crete held off hot-handed Superior, 68-65, enroute to the finals.

In the opener, Nebraska City put a first-half scare into the winners. The Jeffs took a quick 8-2 lead before Nebraska City unwound enough to struggle back to a 14-10 first quarter deficit.

Then the Pioneers then rallied behind sophomore Steve Orton's two baskets and seven of eight free throws to lead 27-20 at half-time.

The Jeffs didn't lose their cool, despite 28 per cent field goal shooting in the first half. With Terry Gregory popping in long set shots, Mark Bangert and Mark Wittler hitting from almost everywhere, Fairbury hit its first 10 shots in the second half, 11 of 13 for the quarter to regain a 42-41 third period lead.

It was Fairbury's turn to cash in on free throws in the fourth quarter as Tim Gregory, Terry's twin brother who suffered a bad cut over his left eye earlier in the quarter, sank six straight charity tries to lead the Jeffs back into the game and Friday's finals.

Wittler, who made his last six field goal attempts, ended as the game's high scorer for Fairbury with 20 points. Bangert added 17 and the Gregory twins accounted for 10 each.

Nebraska City had Steve Orton with 14 and Jeff Ehlers with 13 to lead the scoring. The Pioneers ended the season with a 13-8 record while Fairbury is now 19-3.

Crete's tournament experience showed dividends in the late going as Superior momentarily lost composure in the closing minute of each half.

The Cardinals pushed out to a 16-10 first quarter lead and led 42-32 at the half, thanks to 22 first half points by Daryl Wittstruck.

Superior, which shot 67 per cent through three quarters to spill third-seeded Auburn Tuesday night, still shot at a 51 per cent first half clip but the Crete press accounted for three turnovers and three Wittstruck baskets in the final 26 seconds of the half.

The Wildcats regained Tuesday's form in the third quarter to move within six points, 54-48, at the buzzer. Then Jeff Edwards, Steve Siebecker and Kevin Madsen each hit jumpers to cut Crete's lead to two.

Mark Erickson, who had been sidelined with first half foul trouble, came off the Cardinal bench to get a bucket before

Crete's Wittstruck then made one of a one-and-one free throw opportunity for a 59-57 lead. The Cardinal pressure forced a turnover and Bill Bals came down for the winners with a big jumper from the side.

The four-point lead proved to be enough as Crete slowed down its rapid offense to match baskets to the end. Superior missed several scoring opportunities which could have sparked the Wildcats but Crete kept the coals to the fire at both ends of the court. Superior couldn't overcome the late pressure.

Crete now takes a 16-4 record into the finals. Superior ended its year at 10-9.

Brown Ousts Amritraj

SHREVEPORT, La. (UPI) — Bill Brown of Omaha, Neb., eliminated India's top-seeded Vijay Amritraj, 3-6, 6-2, 6-3, from the Shreveport International Tennis Tournament sponsored by the Independent Players Association Wednesday.

Brown, who upended Ilie Nastase in straight sets in the 1974 Canadian Open and defeated Amritraj last year in the Midlands Tennis Open in Omaha, turned the match in game four of the final set after they had each exchanged a break.

The spidery Amritraj began the last set with a service upset but was frustrated as the 25-year-old former Notre Dame ace bounded back with a break of his own.

"I started off cautiously," Brown said. "I received way behind the baseline. When I started banging his serve back, I had the edge."

Amritraj said he has been bothered by a stiff right shoulder and will go to Boston for treatment this week but that that was not what caused his defeat.

"I didn't serve well the whole match," he said. "He beat me by just hitting more balls in."

In other first round matches, Wojtek Fibak of Poland defeated Andy Lloyd, 6-2, 6-1; Viorel Marcu of Romania defeated Spencer Segura, 1-6, 7-5, 6-3; Bob Kreiss defeated Larry Gottfried, 6-2, 4-6, 6-1; Anand Amritraj of India defeated Cliff Letcher of Australia, 6-1, 4-6, 6-1; and Robert Machan of Hungary defeated Mike Macchette, 6-2, 6-1.

They are Dick Taylor, Omaha, singles, 753; Posselman's Truck Plaza, Grand Island, team, 3,083; and Gary Muth, 907.87, all events, 1,840.

The tournament continues through March 23.

Midlands Tourney Canceled

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Rather than offering an "inferior product not worthy of the support of our corporation or the people of Omaha," the 1975 Midlands International Tennis Championships were canceled Thursday, tourney directors announced.

James A. Farber, board member of the Midlands International Tennis Tournament, Inc., said the decision was reached after local sponsors were informed by USLTA officials that the appearance of top-flight world class players could not be guaranteed this year.

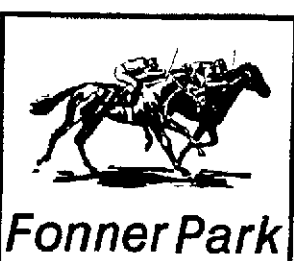

The tourney had been scheduled March 25-30 at the Boys Town Auditorium.

A representative of William Riordan, director of the USLTA Winter Indoor Circuit, told local officials the problems stemmed from a heavy schedule of contractual commitments such as head-to-head competition between the big names in the game like Jimmy Connors.

Connors played here last year, while other name players such as Stan Smith and Ilie Nastase played in earlier tourneys.

"Top flight tennis is available, so rather than offer a second-class attraction, we plan to negotiate a championship event to be brought to Omaha in the near future," Farber said.

Farber added that proceeds from advance ticket sales will be refunded.

The two-year-old grandson of New England Patriots' founder William Sullivan died in a fire that swept the family home.

If the WFL places a franchise in Tulsa, Okla., it may have to build its own stadium after Tulsa University trustees turned down a request to rent its Skelly Stadium.

Danny Lee, a Northeast Louisiana State punter, signed with the New Orleans Saints.

The Oakland Raiders report they are a step closer to signing James McAlister, the swift former UCLA fullback who played for the Southern California Sun last year.

George Rice has been named defensive line coach for the Houston Oilers.

Tight end Charlie Sanders, a holdout in times past, signed a multi-year contract with the Detroit Lions of the NFL for an estimated annual amount of $75,000.

Billy Douglas, a freshman player Newberry College, S.C., who broke his back in a spring scrimmage, died in a Columbia hospital.

BASEBALL

The Montreal Expos announced that they have renewed the contract of veteran left-hander Dave McNally, who was obtained in a trade from Baltimore.

Roy White will be at first base when the New York Yankees play the Texas Rangers in their first spring training exhibition game.

The Unser brothers, Bob and Al, Johnny Rutherford, defending champion Brian Redman of England, Can-Am champ Jackie Oliver and Mario Andretti are among some of the 70 drivers who indicated they will compete in this year's Formula 5,000 series jointly sanctioned by the Sports Car Club of America and the U.S. Auto Club.

OTHER SPORTS

The world light-heavyweight boxing match between champion Victor Galindez of Argentina and South Africa's Pierre Fourie has been officially set for April 5.

Bad weather and unfavorable course conditions forced postponement of the downhill training runs for more than 100 skiers entered in a World Cup race and the Nations' World Series of Skiing at Jackson, Wyo.

Czechoslovakians Jan Kodes and Jiri Hrebec advanced to the semifinals of the $60,000 International Tennis Tournament at London's Royal Albert Hall.

The Pittsburgh Penguins said they have set ticket prices and have a priority for regular season ticket holders for the four likely games to be played at the Civic Arena.

Despite the delay in Superdome construction, mayor Moon Landrieu said there was a "strong possibility" major league teams will play there this year.

Officials of the AAU said that Memphis has been selected as the site for the 1976 National Junior Olympics.

Defending champion Graham Marsh of Australia, scoring five birdies on the first nine holes, took the first-day lead in the Malaysian Open Golf Tournament by two strokes with a two-under-par 66.

The promoter of the March 24 heavyweight fight between Muhammad Ali and Chuck Wepner announced that 50 cents from each ticket to the closed-circuit telecast of the bout would go to drought-stricken African countries.

Brown Ousts Amritraj

SHREVEPORT, La. (UPI) — Bill Brown of Omaha, Neb., eliminated India's top-seeded Vijay Amritraj, 3-6, 6-2, 6-3, from the Shreveport International Tennis Tournament sponsored by the Independent Players Association Wednesday.

Brown, who upended Ilie Nastase in straight sets in the 1974 Canadian Open and defeated Amritraj last year in the Midlands Tennis Open in Omaha, turned the match in game four of the final set after they had each exchanged a break.

The spidery Amritraj began the last set with a service upset but was frustrated as the 25-year-old former Notre Dame ace bounded back with a break of his own.

"I started off cautiously," Brown said. "I received away behind the baseline. When I started banging his serve back, I had the edge."

Amritraj said he has been bothered by a stiff right shoulder and will go to Boston for treatment this week but that that was not what caused his defeat.

"I didn't serve well the whole match," he said. "He beat me by just hitting more balls in."

In other first round matches, Wojtek Fibak of Poland defeated Andy Lloyd, 6-2, 6-1; Viorel Marcu of Romania defeated Spencer Segura, 1-6, 7-5, 6-3; Bob Kreiss defeated Larry Gottfried, 6-2, 4-6, 6-1; Anand Amritraj of India defeated Cliff Letcher of Australia, 6-1, 4-6, 6-1; and Robert Machan of Hungary defeated Mike Machette, 6-2, 6-1.

New Leaders In Doubles

Columbus (UPI) — Gary Patzel and Roger Lyon, Newman Grove, are the new leaders in the WNAX Bowling Tournament at Boulevard Lanes here. The team leads with a score of 1,348.

Leaders in the other events remain unchanged from last week.

They are Dick Taylor, Omaha, singles, 753; Posselman's Truck Plaza, Grand Island, team, 3,083; and Gary Muth, 907.87, all events, 1,840.

Midlands Tourney Canceled

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Rather than offering an "inferior product not worthy of the support of our corporation or the people of Omaha," the 1975 Midlands International Tennis Championships were canceled Thursday, tourney directors announced.

James A. Farber, board member of the Midlands International Tennis Tournament, Inc., said the decision was reached after local sponsors were informed by USLTA officials that the appearance of top-flight world class players could not be guaranteed this year.

The tourney had been scheduled March 25-30 at the Boys Town Auditorium.

A representative of William Riordan, director of the USLTA Winter Indoor Circuit, told local officials the problems stemmed from a heavy schedule of contractual commitments such as head-to-head competition between the big names in the game like Jimmy Connors.

Connors played here last year, while other name players such as Stan Smith and Ilie Nastase played in earlier tourneys.

"Top flight tennis is available, so rather than offer a second-class attraction, we plan to negotiate a championship event to be brought to Omaha in the near future," Farber said.

Farber added that proceeds from advance ticket sales will be refunded.

Wishing Well

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
